Highway Deaths Mounting

Pettis and Seven Neighboring Counties Show Big Increase Over a Year Ago

The number of traffic accidents during the first half of this year was nearly the same as for the same period last year in the eight-county area of Pettis County and its seven neighbors, but the number of deaths almost doubled.

The increased death toll can be traced directly to Lafayette County, which had 12 fatalities in the first six months of 1954, compared with only one from January through June, 1953. Two of those 12 deaths occurred last month.

Pettis County's record, however, shows that although it had fewer deaths this year, the number of accidents, injuries and property damage increased considerably.

During the first half of this year, it had 91 accidents, in which four persons were killed, 88 injured and $49,426 in property damage was done. For the same period last year, the record was 58 accidents, five deaths, 51 injuries and $32,065 in property damage.

Safest county in this eight-county group is Benton, although slipped a little last month. During the first half of this year it had only 34 accidents, two deaths, 17 injuries and $11,130 in property damage. Its record for the same period last year was 38 accidents, one death, 35 injuries and $13,010 in property damage.

Last month, however, it was second in safety to Saline County, which has ranked fourth place among the eight counties in safety this year. Benton had five accidents and one injury, while Saline County had only two accidents and no injuries. Neither county had a traffic death last month.

Here is the record for each of the eight counties:

Pettis—June, 1954: 18 accidents, one death, 19 injuries, $8,385 property damage; first six months, 1954: 91 accidents, four deaths, 88 injuries, $49,426 property damage; first six months, 1953; 58 accidents, five deaths, 51 accidents, and $32,065 property damage.

Benton—June, 1954: five accidents, no deaths, one injury, $1,100 property damage; first six months, 1954: 34 accidents, two deaths, 17 injuries, $11,130 property damage; first six months, 1953: 38 accidents, one death, 35 injuries and $13,010 property damage.

Cooper—June, 1954: 13 accidents, no deaths, 13 injuries, $6,710 property damage; first six months, 1954: 49 accidents, one death, 32 injuries, $28,465 property damage; first six months, 1953: 54 accidents, one death, 54 injuries, and $46,910 property damage.

Only 109 Saturday

Saturday was hot and we'll bet you you thought it was hotter than 109, but that's what the official thermometer registered. At that it was only the third hottest day of a hot week, being beaten by Monday's 113 and Wednesday's all time record of 115.

The low temperature here Saturday morning was 76; 106 at 1 p. m. and 109 at 3 p. m.

Generally fair Sunday, high near 100.

Czechs Try To Get Information From G.I.'s—

Threaten Captured Americans With Jail Terms Unless They Talk

FUERTH, Germany, July 17 (AP)—"After a year or so in prison you will probably give better answers."

With that grim threat, Czech Communists tried to pry military information from seven U.S. soldiers imprisoned 12 days in the Soviet satellite, the soldiers said today.

The seven, freed Thursday after being captured by a trigger-happy Czech patrol July 4, told a news conference here of their experience.

They said they had not been physically harmed, but all were questioned frequently and separately by an English-speaking Czech who accused them of being spies.

The seven are: Capt. Jack Davis, 31, Raytown, Mo.; Pvt. Richard J. Jumper, 21, Booneville, Miss.; Pfc. Leonard D. Tennis, 18, Alliance, Ohio; Cpl. John F. Glasson, 24, Oakdale, Calif.; Pfc. Jerry W. Grffith, 22, Springfield, Ohio; Pfc. George Switzer, 23, Milburn, Neb.; Pvt. Ross McGinnis, 21, Greensburg, Pa.

Describing the persistent Communist interrogation, Davis said:

"They questioned me on everything ranging from military subjects to American politics and Sen. McCarthy."

The chubby Missourian said they were captured when they went to the border to "take a look" near the bavarian town of Baernau. Suddenly about 20 armed Czech soldiers swooped down. Firing warning shots.

Holding the seven at gunpoint, the Czechs took the men's garrison caps, turned them inside out and jammed them down over their prisoners' eyes.

"From then on, we never knew where we were," Davis said. "We may have been held in Prague and we may not. We were held in three different prisons, that's all we know."

Shortly after the capture was reported, German border police said Czech frontier guards had said the men were taken to Prague.

Davis said he protested to his captors that the men had been merely on a holiday visit to the border, but his words were shrugged off.

"I pulled my cap back up several times to see where we were going, but a guard jammed it back over my eyes as they led us away," Davis said. "They meant business."

That night an English-speaking Czech began interrogations which went on intermittently during their confinement.

When Davis refused to discuss U.S. military information, his inquisitor warned:

"After a year or so in prison you will probably give better answers."

The other men underwent similar threats and questioning, and Tennis said he was interrogated "roughly."

"They shouted and yelled and shook their fists at me but they did not strike me or use other physical violence," he said.

Jumper, a 6-foot-2 Negro, said the Czechs tried to inject the racial issue into his questioning. McGinnis said he "told them something you could not print in a newspaper when they tried to sell us on communism."

Davis said their food during imprisonment was plan and high in protein, but "their best food is not as good as our worst."

The men were told that their government had forgotten all about them, despite U.S. military and State Department atemps o obain their freedom.

They were not told they were to be released. Their first news of it came when they were taken blindfolded into a Czech bus and driven to the border. There the men of the U.S. 2nd Armored Cavalry regiment met them.

The seven, all attached to a medical unit, will be returned to their outfits tomorrow.

Senate Passes Drought Bill To Aid Farmers

Unanimously Passes Bill To Liberalize Loans To Farmers

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Spurred by reports of widespread drought and skidding cattle prices the Senate today unanimously voted to set up a system of liberalized loans and credit for distressed farmers and cattlemen.

Sens. Anderson (D-NM) and Schoeppel (R-Kan) jointly sponsored legislation which would authorize second mortgage loans of up to $15,000 through the farm credit administration.

The measure now goes to the House.

"If this four-year-old drought continues in some sections, these will be needed," Anderson, former secretary of agriculture, told the Senate.

The Senate was told the farm credit agency abandoned the system of secondary mortgages in 1947 after widespread use of them during the depression of the 1930's.

Earlier Sen. Carlson (R-Kan) urged that Secretary of Agriculture Benson immediately resume a government beef buying program smilar to one carried out last year when drought forced early marketing of much livestock and caused a big drop in cattle prices.

Carlson said forced marketing is underway again in parts of the Southwest because of the recent heat wave and lack of rainfall.

He said he had discussed this with Secretary Benson and had been told "we might expect some action in the very near future." Carlson said in a Senate speech that beef purchases should "start at once."

Under the Anderson-Schoeppel bill, loans to financially-distressed farmers and ranchers could be repaid over a period of 40 years, with liberal terms for postponing repayments for as long as five years if the farm credit administrator authorizes it.

Sen. Symington D-Mo. also urged immediate resumption of last year's emergency beef buying and feed distribution programs.

In a telegram to Secretary Benson, Symington said "severity of drought in Missouri justifies immediate action. In most of Missouri drought is now as serious as at any time last year. In some sections it is much worse.

"Immediate reactivation of beef buying and feed distribution programs in distressed areas vitally important if brood herds are to be saved.

Officials Say Powder Oven Caused Blast

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP)—Plant officials said today an explosion in a powder drying oven apparently touched off the series of blasts which killed ten people at a fireworks and munitions factory here yesterday.

About 200 men, women and children quietly evacuated hteir home near the plant-site on the west edge of Chestertown today as Army ordnance experts cleared the area of dangerous explosives still in the five acres of blackened ruins.

A special state police team combed the ruins of the Kent Manufacturing Co. today but found no more bodies.

Columbus Woman New Dean Of Women at MV

MARSHALL (AP — Mrs. Elizabeth S. Sargent of Columbus, Ohio, has been appointed dean of women at Missouri Valley College. She will take up her duties about Sept. 1. She has held positions at Vassar College, Temple University, Wayne University and for the last year has been head resident in the women's dormitory program at Ohio State University.

Dies In Auto Wreck

PALMYRA, July 17 (AP) — A crash involving a car and two trucks on U. S. 61 near here today killed Donald Wayne Dunlap, 18, of Palmyra, a passenger in the auto.

Highway patrolmen said the car and a truck collided headon as both tried to go around another truck backing into a stock loading dock.

Paul Uhlenbrock, 20, and his brother, Nicky, 14, were injured seriously in the crash. Police said the elder Uhlenbrock apparently was driving the auto.

Organization Formed To Help Mental Cases

JEFFERSON CITY, July 17—(AP)—A new organization met here today with the aim of helping an estimated 30,000 mentally retarded Missouri youngsters.

The organization, formed last March, today adopted by-laws and a constitution. Spokesmen said the Missouri Association for Retarded Children hopes to prepare a legislative program that will propose a state training system for such youngsters.

Another hope is that research and therapy units can be set up at Missouri's two training schools for mentally-crippled children at Marshall-Carrollton and St. Louis.

Members from St. Louis, Kansas City, Joplin, Springfield and other Missouri cities are attending the meeting which ends tomorrow.

TB Topics

TB kills more people than all other infectious diseases combined.

TB is the first cause of deaths for persons between the ages of 15 and 35.

The only way to detect TB in the early stages is by chest x-ray.

If TB is found early, it can be cured "right now."

TB killed as many people in the past five years as did motor car accidents.

Peace Hopes For Indochina Dim Sharply

East-West Session Proves Inconclusive At Geneva Conference

GENEVA, July 17—(AP)—The prospects for an Indochina peace dimmed sharply tonight.

Another East-West meeting was inconslusive and a Western informant said it tipped the scales against a settlement, at least temporarily.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who has made Tuesday night his deadline for an "honorable" cease fire or his resignation, warned his countrymen in a recorded broadcast they must be prepared for a possible continuation of bloody warfare.

The premier said it may be necessary to draft Frenchmen for the Indochina front.

A high Western source who had access to the documents offered in the latest private ministerial sessions said the odds were about seven to five against Mendes-France making his July 20 deadline.

Tonight, at the demand of Eastern delegations, the full nine-country conference was summoned for an extraordinary session at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

This will be the first conference session in two weeks and the first held on Sunday. Western sources said it will be a "restricted" meeting, with each delegation limited to two representatives.

This indicated the Sunday meeting is intended as a brass-tracks bargaining session just two days ahead of the Mendes-France time limit.

A high Western informant said no progress was made in tonight's two-hour meeting of the French premier, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Mendes-France and Eden went into the meeting with their hands strengthened by the return of U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith to the leadership of the American delegation in Geneva.

Eugene Boone Operated On In KC Last Friday

Eugene Boone, 1523 South Beacon, was operated on in Research Hospital, Kansas City, for a back injury Friday. The operation was performed by Dr. Ronald Coburn and Boone was reported to have come through the operation satisfactorily. However, it is too early to determine the success of the operation and Boone will remain in the hospital for some time.

His injury was the result of a fall from a light pole while working last Tuesday. He was taken to Research Hospital Thursday for Friday's operation.

Heat May Have Ruined Corn, But Delay Silage Cutting

Pettis County's corn crop, along with those in other counties, may be ruined by the heat and the grasshoppers, but extension specialists are warning farmers not to rush into plowing up the fields or into cutting the corn for silage.

In a letter to all county agents in the state this week, William J. Murphy and J. Ross Fleetwood, field crops specialists of the Extension Service at the College of Agriculture, reported:

The high temperatures and low moisture of the last few days have seriously damaged the corn crop throughout the state. The extent of damage varies dependent upon factors such as soil fertility, moisture supply, stage of maturity and natural protection from hot winds.

As a result many fields will make low, if any, grain yields, even though rains and cooler weather do come. On the other hand cooler weather and ample rain could make near normal yields in many fields.

Since there is no way of knowing when a weather change is coming, it would seem wise to wait as long as possible before ensiling drought stricken corn. As a general rule, so long as the stalks contain enough moisture to insure good silage, the corn should be left in the field. If rains do come the tonnage will be increased even though ears may never develop. The above may not apply to early planted corn of advanced maturity.

Experiences in 1934 and 1953 indicate that no preservatives are required in ensiling this immature corn.

May we remind you that soybeans do bloom repeatedly if blooms fail to set and there is still time for them if we get rains. Cut for hay only when serious loss of leaves appears imminent.

Lespedeza can revive with early rains and make a good pasture or hay crop, if the plants are still alive.

The powers of nature to recoup are almost unbelievable. Crops should be salvaged for silage, hay or pasture but waiting until the last possible time to do so may give a good rain a chance to increase production materially.

Cases of sudan grass poisoning have also been reported from several counties. These fields that have caused poisoning can well be used for silage or hay as the poisonous principle is destroyed in the ensilaging and curing processes. In the event of abundant second growth after rains there would be a good chance for these fields not to contain sufficient poison to prevent their use for pasture — however it would be good business to have a veterinarian present for a couple of hours when cattle were first turned in to avoid chance of loss.

Senate Debates Atom Bill

Extra Session Talk Continues On Ike's Proposal To Revamp Atomic Energy Law

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Weary but still-talking senators chalked up another round of extra-session argument today over what is in—and not in—the administration's plan to revamp the atomic energy law.

A string of speakers, including Senators Morse (Independent, Ore), Lehman (D-Lib-NY) and Murray (D-Mont) cried "give-away" and "monopoly" against one of the atomic revision bill's major provisions: to allow private industry to take part in developing peacetime atomic power.

Administration backers disputed this, but waited their turn to offer a fuller defense in debate which has run beyond bounds sought by Senate leaders in their drive for adjournment by the end of the month.

Meeting again in unusual Saturday session, which lasted until 6:47 p.m. and began two hours ahead of the normal noontime convening, the legislators also swung into such side disputes during their fourth day of debate as:

1. A charge by Morse that President Eisenhower, because of his friendship with famed golfer Robert T. Bobby Jones Jr., apparently is trying to substitute a "golf stick for a yardstick in the power industry."

2. An assertion by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) that foreign visitors are taken to see the Tennessee Valley Authority in an effort to show the U. S. government supports the doctrin of Nicolai Lenin, Soviet founder, that the government must control the nation's economy.

The argument over electric power is an offshoot of Eisenhower's order to the Atomic Energy Commission to contract for private power in the TVA area. Most criticism in the four days of debate so far has been directed against the contract proposal, not itself a part of omnibus bill awaiting Senate action. Other features of the measure include provision for a limited sharing of atomic secrets with America's allies.

Tries To Avoid Hospital After Insanity Acquittal

ALLEGAN, Mich., July 17 (AP)—Acquitted today by reason of temporary insanity in the slaying of his pretty wife's playboy-industrialist suitor, Dr. Kenneth B. Small began an immediate battle to save himself from commitment to a hospital for the criminally insane.

The 31-year-old Detroit dentist won the first skirmish as Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith put off until next week a decision on divergent commitment views.

Prosecutor Dwight Cheever argued that a 1939 Michigan law requires immediate commitment of any persons acquitted of murder by reason of insanity and his retention until he is proved sane. Leo Hoffman, defense counsel, insisted that under a 1947 law Judge Smith could appoint a sanity commission to rule on Dr. Small's current mental status, which Hoffman contends is a sane one.

At the Allegan county jail where he must await a commitment or release decision, Dr. Small received this telephoned greeting relayed from his 30-year-old wife, Edith:

"Tell Ken congratulations from me, I'm going home to Detroit."

Mrs. Small was not present when the jury returned its verdict. She has gone into seclusion and her physician said she needed a complete rest.

It was over the independently wealthy Edith's affections that Dr. Small pumped two fatal bullets into the chest of Jules Lack of New York, last May 29th at a luxurious Lake Michigan cottage at nearby Douglas. The dentist surprised them at a weekend party.

Dr. Small pleaded temporary insanity. A jury of 11 men and a woman agreed with him at 1:40 a. m. today after five hours and four minutes deliberation.

There was a wild scene. Spectators cheered. Friends broke through to shake the hand of the 6-foot dentist. Some women kissed him.

Killed By Hay Bailer

CLARENCE, Mo., July 17 (AP)—Emerald Purdy, about 30, of Clarence was killed by a hay baling machine he was operating northwest of here in Macon County today.

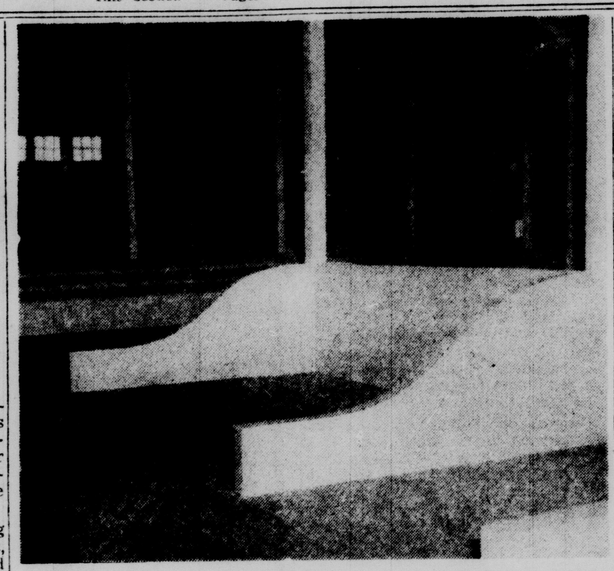
He apparently stopped the tractor to adjust the pickup baler and was caught in the machine on the Tom Cook farm. He was working for Dennis Hutchinson of Clarence.

Purdy's wife and four children survive.

Nixon Will Talk To VFW

PHILADELPHIA, July 17—(AP)—The Veteran of Foreign Wars said today Vice President Richard Nixon will speak here during national VFW encampment Aug. 2.

The encampment, running Aug. 1-6, is expected to bring some 100,000 persons to Philadelphia.



AG BUILDING AT EYE LEVEL—Secretary Ross Ewing of the Missouri State Fair wants people to be able to see the displays in the agriculture building at this year's fair, so he has had all the partitions cut down to a four foot height. The picture shows how open the building now seems while it formerly looked small with the view cut by tall partitions and large signs.

NEW FLOWER GARDENS, shaped like a star and the moon, are proving attractive in the yard of the administration building at the Missouri State Fair. These are Florist Bob Lee's pride and joy this year, but his other flower beds on the grounds are also beautiful, as usual.

Two Buildings Improved This Year For Missouri State Fair

Offices of the Missouri State Fair are buzzing with activity these days as those in charge begin drawing all the details together for the big exposition which will run from Aug. 21 to Aug. 29.

Two major improvements have been made in the buildings this year while two new flower beds have been added to make the grounds even more attractive.

When Secretary Ross Ewing was looking over the fairgrounds last year, before he actually took over the reins as manager, one thing worried him. He could not see what was in the agriculture building.

Realizing that if he could not get a good view of the agriculture and horticulture displays, other fairgoers would have similar difficulty, he decided to do something about it.

For many years there have been high partitions in the building, right down the center aisle, and large signs and displays have been allowed in the center of the large room.

This is being eliminated.

Ewing has had all the partitions cut down to four-foot heights all the tall signs removed, and has cleared the center of the room of a soft drink stand which was there. Now there is an unobstructed view throughout the building. It will remain that way, he says, for no exhibits or displays will be allowed to go over the four-foot height in the center. It will be permissible for the displays to go higher along the walls.

The ham show case has been moved from out in the middle of the building to along one wall, and it makes a more attractive display place for the country cured meats.

An office has also been provided for the superintendent of the agriculture show and a sign over the office door lists all the officials of the many exhibits and shows held in the building.

The other major building improvement has come in the space that has been occupied for years by the Girl Scouts. This has been made into a milk bar and the dairy council of the state will operate the stand.

Behind the milk bar will be the archaeology display, which has been housed previously in the philatelic building. The Pettis County Historical Society will have charge of the archaeology display.

Bob Lee, the fair's florist, has his flower beds all in readiness for the fair and is keeping them watered so they will be at the height of their glory durmg fair week.

This year he has added two new flower beds, one shaped like a star and the other like the moon. They are in the south lawn of the administration building and will probably prove to be the most seen flower beds on the grounds.

The star will have red, white and blue blossoms at fairtime and the moon will be yellow colored.

Explosion On Gun Range Burn Six Men

FT. SILL, Okla., July 17 (AP)—A round of high explosive anti-tank ammunition exploded in the barrel of a 105mm self-propelled howitzer on the Ft. Sill artillery range today, burning six crew members and two rescuers, three of them seriously.

Quick thinking by two soldier spectators, themselves burned about the hands and face, was credited with saving the lives of two crewmen who ran from the scene with their clothes ablaze.

Sgt. Herman Graham of Wynne, Ark., and Pfc. Roy E. Simonsen, Cottage Grove, Ore., tackled the hysterical men and rolled them in the dirt, extinguishing the flames.

Seriously burned were Cpl. George Woodie, Palmetto, Fla.; Pvt. Henry Villeral, Kansas City, Mo.; and Pfc. Clyde Bond, Frost, Ohio.

Less seriously burned were 1st Lt. Herbert W. Stephens of nearby Lawton, Okla., in command. Cpl. Vasilos Argyropolis, Ponca City, Okla.; and Pvt. Willie Williams, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

British US Agree On Point

Agree Quick Action Necessary In Asia If Indochina Peace Negotiations Fail

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The United States and Britain have agreed quick action must be taken to bolster the battered anti-Communist front in Southeast Asia if Indochina peace negotiations finally fall through at Geneva next Tuesday night.

Officials of the two governments said there is no agreement yet as to what the actions should be. But a basis for prompt decision has been laid in American-British studies of possible moves—ranging from outright intervention in the Indochina war to stepped-up reinforcement of free areas like Thailand.

These studies have been made in Washington during the last three weeks by representatives of the State Department and British Embassy.

London and Washington are also agreed that whatever is done must be done with the maximum cooperation and support of Asian countries but beyond this point they disagree on how high a price to pay for the potential support of neutral countries like India and Indonesia. Washington is not willing to delay decisions, or modify plans to woo the Indians, but London considers Indian good will worth a high price.

Information from the highest quarters indicates the Indochina crisis, with war or peace hanging in the balance, is measured here as follows.

The chances are probably a little better than even that the Communists, led by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Red China's Chou En-lai will make an eleventh-hour agreement to end the eight-year-old war. But French Premier Mendes-France is negotiating with a gun at his head, due to his pledge to resign if he fails to make a peace deal by midnight Tuesday.

Outside of the Indochina arena, Molotov and Chou and the Vietminh's Pham Van Dong are assumed to be weighing their responses to the Mendes-France peace drive against two grand strategy considerations:

1. If they refuse to give the French acceptable terms they can upset the Mendes-France government, perhaps create political chaos at Paris, possibly get a new French government which would make a surrender peace. On this line of strategy they might also wreck French chances of ratifying the European Defense Community and thereby widen the rift between France on the one hand and West Germany and the Allies on the other.

2. If they agree to what Mendes-France considers honorable terms they will not only get an end to the Indochina fighting with a big gain of territory for the Reds, They will also bring about a general relaxation in world tensions, strengthen the argument of those who want Red China in the United Nations, and brighten their prospects for trade with the free world. They can also employ these issues to make trouble between the United States and Britain.

Whether there is to be peace on terms acceptable to the West is now clearly up to the Reds. When Secretary Dulles was in Paris this week Mendes-France assured him that France would not accept surrender terms. The French Premier is determined on nothing less than a cease-fire partition of Viet Nam with safeguards to protect southern Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia from some future Red grab.

Charter Fishing Boat Sinks But All Are Rescued

FREEPORT, Tex. (AP)—A charter fishing boat sank in the Gulf of Mexico 12 miles south of here today, but all 17 persons aboard were saved.

Police Chief A. J. Schamerhorn said the boat was the Pearl Louise. Schamerhorn said the captain, whose name he did not know, was at the Freeport Coast Guard station making a report of the sinking and no details had been released.

"But the Coast Guard has announced that all 17 persons were picked up and were being taken to the Coast Guard station," Schamerhorn said.

The police chief said the total of 17 persons probably included three crewmen and 14 passengers who hired it to go deep sea fishing.

Otterville Passes Bond For New Water System

Otterville voters carried a special bond issue for a new municiple water system Saturday. The vote was 171 for the issue and 47 against which was more than the necessary two-thirds required to carry the issue.

The issue will provide for the construction of a new $70,000 water system which will be owned and operated by the city of Otterville. The issue contained two propositions one for $50,000 and the other for $20,000 both of which were to go toward the building of the water works. No definite date has been set for work to begin on the project but it is hoped that construction will begin within a month.

Drowns In Mississippi

LOUISIANA, Mo., July 17—(AP)—J. D. Walker, 33, of Louisiana fell into the Mississippi River and drowned near here today while on an outing with his wife and friends.

Walker and his wife, who moved here about six months ago from Bowling Green, were on a cruiser boat with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Flansburg when he fell into the river.

The body had not been recovered.

Warsaw Holds Missouri Records for Both Hot, Coldest Temperatures

Warsaw has the record for the state of Missouri for both high and low temperatures, the high being last Wednesday, July 14, when it was 118 degrees. The low, over a period of keeping records has been 40 degrees below zero, the date of which cannot be located, according to C. C. Hoepsinger, official weatherman of that area.

Fire Trucks Collide

ELY, Mo., July 17 (AP)—Smoke from a farm house fire obscured the drivers' vision and two fire trucks answering the alarm collided today in front of the burning building.

There were no reports of injuries.

One truck was coming from Palmyra and the other from Monroe City. The fire, which apparently began in a shed, destroyed the farm home of George Belmeyer. Neighbors saved some furniture but were unable to put out the blaze.

National Guard Leaves

KANSAS CITY, July 17 (AP)—Units of the 35th Division, Missouri and Kansas National Guard, were enroute by train and truck convoy from Camp McCoy, Wis., today. There they will spend two weeks in field training. Some units left last night, the others this morning. They will arrive tomorrow.

Change Plan On Drivers' Licenses

M. E. Morris, director of revenue, and Colonel Hugh H. Waggner, superintendent of the Highway Patrol have announced a change in the procedure for giving drivers' license examinations, effective Aug. 1. The change is expected to speed up the issuance of licenses to those applicants required to be examined by eliminating the delays caused by mailing notifications of examinations dates to applicants as is now done.

Under the new plan, any applican required by law to take an examination must take the examination before making application for a license. No notices will be sent to applicants advising them when and where to report for the examination. The examiners will be available in each county on certain days and it will be the responsibility of the applicant to get to the examining station on those days to take the examination. A schedule showing when and where examinations are given will be published in the newspapers and posted in license bureaus and public buildings.

If the applicant passes the examination, he will be given a copy of the examination record which he must present to the license bureau or a notary public at the time he makes his application. The receipt given him by the license bureau or notary public when attached to the examination record will serve as a temporary license until the regular license is received from the Department of Revnue in Jefferson City.

If an applicant desires to renew an unexpired license, he must present the unexpired license at the license bureau or to a notary public at the time he makes his application. The receipt given him by the license bureau or notary when attached to the old license will serve as a temporary license until the regular license is received from Jefferson City.

New application forms which are serially numbered will be used and no applications made on the old forms will be accepted by the Department of Revenue after Aug. 1. Notaries public who desire to take applications for operator's or chauffeur's licenses must obtain new application forms from the Department of Revenue at Jefferson City. In order to avoid delay in receiving their licenses, applicants should examine the application form to be sure it has a number and is one of the new forms.

Cotton Bag Sewing Queen May Be Named From Contestants at Missouri State Fair

Some lucky woman will be crowned International Cotton Bag Sewing Queen this fall and Missourians have an opportunity to compete and maybe win the title through entering the contest at the Missouri State Fair.

Mrs. P. L. Strole, superintendent of the home economics department at the fair, can give all information wanted on the contest, in which her department participated for the first time last year and her entries numbered more than 400.

Making things out of the colorful containers of feed, flour and fertilizer has become popular with thousands of women and some of the items that may be made for the contest are: mother and daughter ensembles, luncheon sets, kitchen curtains, quilts, blouses, stuffed toys, dresses and pajamas. Ingenuity and originality of ideas, as well as quality of workmanship, will count heavily in the judging — so put on your thinking cap before you start to sew.

The nation's top cotton bag seamstress is in for the time of her life. She and her escort will receive an all expense-paid trip to Chicago where they will be royally entertained for a week. As guest of the International Dairy Show, she will meet celebrities and appear on nationally famous radio and TV shows. She will return home laden with valuable gifts.

But the winners at the Missouri State Fair will do all right, too. First prizes range from $3 to $7 according to the type of article entered with second prizes $2 to $4 and third prizes $1 to $2.

The sweepstakes prize will be a portable electric sewing machine to the person winning the highest number of cash prizes in the contest. The 1953 winner is not eligible, however. The first, second and third place winners in each of the classes will entitle them to gift certificates of $50, $25 and $10 credit on a Pfaff sewing machine.

The entries of each sweepstakes winner will be sent to Chicago for final judging to select the 1954 International Cotton Bag Sewing Queen. The queen and two runners-up will receive all-expense trips and a week's visit to Chicago, plus gifts valued at more than $2,000.

Judging will be based on originality, workmanship and appearance. Only one entry must be submitted for each class. All entries must be made entirely from cotton feed, flour, fertilizer or sugar bags with the exception of trimmings such as rickrack, braid, tapes, ribbons buttons, etc.

Entries close for this contest at the Missouri State Fair on July 30.

One of the gifts for the International cotton bag sewing queen will be this deep freeze unit.

Cannot Find Clues In Fireworks Blast Which Killed 3 Persons

CHICAGO (AP)—Investigators said today they still had no clues to the cause of a fireworks plant explosion and fire which killed three persons and seriously injured a fourth yesterday.

A series of blasts heard 10 miles away was followed by fire which sent up a towering plume of smoke.

Two one-story frame buildings comprising the Melrose Fireworks Company's factory in suburban Leyden Township, near Schiller Park, were demolished.

Ironically, the blast came only a few hours after a fireworks and munitions plant blew up in Chesterton, Md., killing 10 employes.

Police Chief Edward Berg of Schiller Park estimated the damage at $30,000.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Lois Beth Huard, 28, had a divorce decree today on this testimony against her husband, Dr. George Stedman Huard, 31, a physician: "He cut my entire wardrobe into little bits . . . Mrs. Huard, also testified yesterday her husband smashed her valuable figurines and poured her perfumes down the bathtub drain.

Ringen-Brushy Club Has 5 Demonstrations

The Ringen Brushy 4-H Club met on July 14 when plans were made for an ice cream social. The meeting was held at the Ringen Community House.

The club discussed various money raising ideas, and the ideal thing seemed to be an ice cream social, which will be Aug. 23 at 8 p.m. at the community house.

Five demonstrations were given throughout the meeting: Linda Demand, sewing; Glenda Teter, grooming; Janet Bradley, gardening; Dale Montgomery, grooming, and George Schutte, grooming.

Elwood Schlobhm gave a project report on the woodwork meeting, and Jimmy Bradley gave one on the dairy meeting.

Plans were made for county achievement day, the State Fair, and the local 4-H tour.

Mrs. George Teter and Mrs. Grace Hoehns served refreshments.

Eighteen members attended the meeting and it was decided to have the next meet at the community house on August 11. Next year's projects will be discussed at this time.

Burglars Take Credit Cards and Cigarettes

EAST ALTON, Ill. (AP) — Some burglars are going to have a busy weekend smoking cigarettes and studying credit account cards.

About 125 cartons of cigarettes and all the cards showing who-owes-what to the Rosedale Market were taken last night from the grocery in nearby Rosewood Heights.

The lock on a safe containing $2,000 was jammed and authorities could not tell immediately whether the money was taken.

Jury Acquits Detroit Dentist In Shooting

ALLEGAN, Mich. (AP)—The love-triangle murder case against Dr. Kenneth B. Small, Detroit dentist who killed his pretty wife's admirer, ended in a dramatic verdict of acquittal by reason of insanity early today.

An Allegan County Circuit Court jury of 11 men and one woman returned its verdict at 1:40 a.m. EST after five hours four minutes of deliberation.

Women spectators screamed. Others applauded. Some women kissed Dr. Small.

The verdict, in effect, held that Dr. Small, 31, society dentist, was not mentally responsible when he shot and killed Jules M. Lack, 45, New York playboy-industrialist, at a swank summer cottage near here last Memorial Day weekend.

At the time Small's brunette wife, Edith, 30, mother of three boys, was a guest with Lack at a house party.

As the verdict was about to be read, Dr. Small sat quietly. His eyes were closed. It appeared he might have been praying.

At the "not guilty" declaration, he looked behind him to smile at his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Small.

Mrs. Small was not in thec ourt room at the time of the verdict.

Priest Gives Up His Calling to Marry Divorcee in Illinois

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—An unusual romance in which a priest gave up his calling to marry a divorcee was disclosed today by Rock Island County records.

The groom was Norbert T. Dahm, 37, a former member of the Order of Friars Minor, a Roman Catholic order of priests, who formerly taught at Quincy College.

He and 33-year-old Mrs. Mildred A. Baxter of Rock Island were married Saturday by R. O. Stone, police magistrate at Milan. Mrs. Baxter divorced Al Baxter, a Quincy auto dealer, in Adams County May 12 this year.

The Rev. Julian Woods, O. F. M., president of Quincy College, declined comment except to say that Dahm is no longer connected with the school or the order.

In his license application, Dahm gave his occupation as cook and Chicago as his home.

Loses His Job For No Proof Of Citizenship

NEW YORK (AP) — John Perry Walker takes pride in his family history — his ancestors number some illustrious U.S. military men.

His greatgrandfather, for instance, was Union Gen. Langdon Easton of the Civil War. His grandfather was a captain who fought in the Indian Wars.

Walker himself attended the U.S. Military Academy and fought in World War II as a Navy dive-bomber pilot.

Imagine, then, his surprise when he lost his city job of four years because of doubts as to his citizenship.

The 34-year-old Walker had been a temporary appointee as a $4,700 a year junior architect. However, when he received a permanent appointment this year, authorities held that his personnel record lacked sufficient evidence of citizenship.

Walker was born in Canada while his father briefly held a job there, and his mother died while Walker was a baby.

When Walker sought to prove that his father was a U.S. citizen, born at Ft. McPherson, Neb., in 1874, he wasn't immediately able to do so. Few birth records were kept in those days.

So Walker was dismissed from his job, and even denied vacation pay.

But things have taken a brighter turn since then. Walker finally was able to obtain evidence relating to his father's birth. And when Mayor Robert F. Wagner heard about the case, he ordered an immediate investigation.

Walker feels sure he'll get his job back.

Calls Vietminh Prison Camp A 'Buchenwald'

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—"These men are from a second Buchenwald."

That was the bitter comment of Jacques Neyrod, French landing ship captain who on Wednesday brought to Haiphong the first 100 French Union prisoners released by the Vietminh under the recent POW-exchange agreement.

The skin-and-bones men were released at Sam Son, on the Indochina seacoast 75 miles south of the seaport of Haiphong, in exchange for 100 Vietminh prisoners.

"They are in terrible condition," Neyrod added. "They are starved and they have had no medical treatment for their wounds or ills."

The prisoners said they many times asked for medical supplies while on the march and in prison camps but were told by their captors of the Communist-led Vietminh: "There are none for you because French planes bomb our supply convoys."

Many of the men said the Vietminh had made crude attempts to indoctrinate them into communism. Legionnaires of German nationality were special targets for this. They were grouped together and encouraged to sing German songs in an apparent attempt to drive a wedge between them and the French soldiers.

In contrast to the emaciated men the landing ship brought back to Haiphong, the Vietminh released at Sam Son by the French were in good condition and fair health.

The French Union prisoners gave grim accounts of a 500-mile death march the Vietmin put them through on starvation rations.

Said one legionnaire: "Those too sick to continue were left to die. Those (left) behind us were in much worse shape than we."

"Sometimes there was only a handful of rice to eat," another said.

Some of the men were on stretchers. Others had to use sticks to walk. Most of the men are suffering from dysentery. Their ribs stick out under skin drawn like parchment.

A French medical officer who accompanied the group from Sam Son said several were not expected to live.

Bevan Calls Risking Third War 'Stupid'

DURHAM, England (AP)—Aneurin Bevan called Prime Minister Churchill "stupid" today and accused him and the United States of risking "a third and last war" by keeping Red China out of the United Nations.

The Welsh legislator, who commands an important leftist following in the British Labor party, was speaking at a rally of Durham mine workers. Recalling that Churchill as war secretary tried to stop the Russian Communist revolution in 1919 both by armed intervention and by "starving" it out, Bevan declared:

"The same thing is happening again. There has just been a revolution in China. But Churchill is there still and he is as stupid in 1954 as he was in 1918.

"He has just been to the United States and there he has surrendered again in deciding that the time is not appropriate for China to be brought into the United Nations. . .

"We don't want the Chinese revolution to suffer the same fate as the Russian revolution. We want the Chinese to be brought into cooperation with the rest of the world. . .

"Unless we learn the lesson and adjust our policies accordingly, we shall bring upon us a third and last world war by not realizing that you cannot do anything with these revolutionaries except to work with them, help them through their difficulties and not make it necessary for them to oppress their own people."

Bevan, former Prime Minister Clement Attlee and six other Labor party leaders are flying to Red China next month on a party good will mission. Bevan is the only extreme leftist among the group.

Russians Want To Remove Berlin Tank Memorial

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians asked the U.S. Army today for permission to remove the controversial Soviet tank memorial from the American sector of West Berlin. The unexpected request undoubtedly will be granted.

The memorial—to the first Red army tank to pierce Nazi Berlin in April,1945—has stood as a symbol of Russian presence in the beleaguered German capital.

West Berliners vented their spite against the memorial during the Soviet blockade to 1948-49 and defaced it with paint and vandalistic attacks. The battered T34 tank astride a marble base has been an eyesore ever since.

Gen. A.A. Grechko, commander-in-chief of Soviet forces in East Germany, sent today's request to U.S. Army headquarters in Heidelberg, asking negotiations to arrange for the removal.

Westerners here were astonished at the request. The Russians have never shown any sign before of being willing to discard the tiniest symbol of their might in Berlin and East Germany. Masters of propaganda, the Soviets must know also, Western circles speculated, that the Germans will view the removal of the tank as perhaps the beginning of the end of an era.

The tank has been a source of annoyance since the blockade. Soviet protests against the defacement were met by official Western comment that one could not expect the West Berliner to feel kindly toward a power that tried to starve him, and that went to his monuments too.

Sgt. Morrison Ends Tour of Duty Aboard Aircraft Carrier

NORFOLK, Va. (FHTNC)—The USS Saipan in scheduled to return here July 20th completing a 'round the world cruise and a tour of duty off Korea.

Serving aboard the light aircraft carrier is Marine Sgt. Marieland E. Morrison, son of Mrs. Helen Bohannon, 615 West Cooper.

Before arriving at Norfolk, the Saipan stopped at Mayport, Fla., to transfer Marine Attack Squadron 324 to its home station at Marine Corps Air Base, Miami.

The Saipan left Norfolk last September and transitted the Panama Canal to arrive at Yokosuka, Japan on Dec. 1.

Since that date, the Saipan has been alternating as the active carrier of the UN forces in the Yellow Sea. James Clemons Wins First Place in State Essay Contest

An essay by James Clemons, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clemons, Malta Bend, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Kinley Clemons, 1706 South Osage, won first place in Missouri in a contest sponsored by the KPMTN Club of Waverly and has been entered in the national contest.

The essay by the Malta Bend High School student, on "What American Means to Me," follows:

Last night I heard Susie, my baby sister, cry out and heard the low voices of Mother and Dad. I turned over in bed with a confidence that all would be well in our household as soon as Susie was given a drink or Mother and Dad had quieted her fears of some babyish dream. I need not worry that Mother or Dad will be taken from our home to answer some trumped-up charges by a Secret Police or a People's army of the country; or that Susie will be torn from one or the other of her parents. No! Things like that don't happen in our country! This is America!

Earl the next morning a knock at the door! In front of the house was a car with license that read "official," and the man at the door wore a uniform. Had the government come to get my father to send him to a far off prison or labor camp because he expressed his opinion yesterday concerning certain government policies? His opinion was contrary to the policies of the party in power. Or had they come for my mother? She had served as a judge at the polls in the general election just a few short months ago. No! Things like that don't happen in my country. This is America! The man in uniform that stood at our front door did represent the government. He was a conservation agent wanting to stock the big pond north of the house with fish from a lake nearby. I do not fear men in uniform or Uncle Sam's military force. One day not too far distant, I shall be part of that great miltary force of my country to help preserve our freedoms. I not only consider this a responsibility, but a privilege and opportunity for my personal development and occupational efficiency.

As the day progressed and it was about mid-morning, another official of Uncle Sam's arrived, the mail man. There were two letters opened immediately, one from Aunt Mary. She had attended a Jefferson Day banquet and enjoyed herself immensely. The second letter was from Uncle Tom. He had enjoyed himself equally as well with several noted celebrities at a Lincoln Day dinner who had made the front page of the county paper. Each seemed to think their party had the solution to all the problems of this great country. But then, it won't be left to Aunt Mary's or Uncle Tom's party to decide. The people will decide which party has the best solution to the country's problems. The people will have a choice of two or more qualified candidates without the aid or assistance of a secret police. Yes-siree, this is America!

After the two letters had been read, two newspapers attracted the attention of Mother and Dad. One a local paper, the other a newspaper from one of our larger cities. On the front page was a picture of one of our congressmen, who had been doing some investigating into subversive activities in government. Aunt Mary's and Uncle Tom's political parties had expressed themselves on this issue in the same paper. The editor of the paper had expressed himself, also. What he had said was not exactly complimentary of either party. Neither political party nor the editor need have any fear for himself or any member of his family. The only answering that they will have to do will be to the people of the country and then the deciding will be by a democratic weapon —the ballot of each voter. Yes! This is America and I'm proud of it!

The days and nights followed in natural sequence, and I attended the public school in my district. There I learned music, art, science, English, history, cooperation and respect for the opinions of my fellow classmates, school friends, in instructors. Here I have the privilege to challenge the opinion of any of my classmates or instructors. I can do this in an American school without any fear that tomorrow or the next day I will be asked to leave school, or receive notice that my services are needed in some government project such as building roads or working in a mine under the watchful eye of the military police of the government. There is no brain washing in American schools! "Ask and it shall be given, seek and ye shall find." Yes, this is America!

Sunday, God's day, made its appearance on the horizon. Such a hustle and bustle to get the family ready for Sunday School and Church God is remembered in our home before each meal and upon retiring at night, but He has a day all His own, too, in America. 'Six days shalt thou labour and do all thy work; but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God."

Just as we were driving out to the highway we met Mr. and Mrs. Brunkhorst and family and Mr. and Mrs. Brown, each on their way to their own churches to worship God. Yes, each of us, all neighbors, Protestants, Catholic and Jewish, will worshp God in our own way, as conscience dictates, and each will return to his own home without being molested or finding the church door locked by orders from the government. Yes, this is America! Open your eyes, hearts, minds and souls, you dictators of the world, and learn a lesson from a truly great nation!

A nation that is free, a nation governed by the Mothers, Fathers, Aunt Marys and Uncle Toms from coast to coast, border to border. This—is my America, my country, and what it means to me. A country with a bright future and the one hope of all the oppressed people of the world.

James is a nephew of Mrs. Philip Pfeiffer, route 3, of the Pfeiffer Floral Company.

Carlson Urges Beef Cattle Program Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), today urged Secretary of Agriculture Benson to put into immediate operation a government beef cattle purchase program similar to that operated during last year's widespread drought.

Carlson said the recent heat wave and lack of rainfall has caused forced marketing of cattle at "ruinously low prices."

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Carlson said he had discussed the new drought-cattle situation with Secretary Benson and had been told "we might expect some action in the very near future."

Carlson said if the beef-purchase program is to be effective in preventing another sharp dip in cattle prices, it should "start at once."

The Kansas senator said he had received numerous telegrams, telephone calls and letters reporting increased marketing o fcattle and declining prices.

He placed telegrams from M. J. Flynn, president of the Kansas City Livestock Exchange, and A. G. Pickett, secretary of the Kansas Livestock Association, in the Congressional Record.

Under mounting pressure, the Agriculture Department had separate surveys under way to chart what can be done for parched lands in many parts of the country.

Quiet Primary Nears Finish In Montana

HELENA, Mont., July 17 (AP)—A Montana primary campaign so quiet that United States senator hasn'e ven returned to his home state to campaign for re-election is drawing to a close.

Republicans and Democrats Tuesday will nominate candidates for the United States Senate, for the two seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and for railroad commissioner and lesser state offices.

James E. Murray of Butte, 78-year-old Democrat who has been in the Senate for 20 years, is seeking nomination for his fourth full tesm.

Murray, sixth in seniority of the Democratic senators, has relied mostly on campaigning by his friends and his son Charles and has not come out from Washington.

Murray has pitched his appeal in recorded television shows on his record in the Senate and his ranking membership on the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which handles many matters important to the Treasure State.

His two opponents, Sam G. Feezell, 47, of Great Falls, and Ray E. Gulick, wheat and mustard seed grower from north central Montana, both have been campaigning actively, but on a personal basis, with no sharp attacks on Murray.

On the Republican side, Rep. Wesley D'Ewart, a five-term House member, is seeking the nomination for the Senate seat Murray now holds.

D'Ewart, traditionally a strong candidate in the eastern 1st District, is making his first statewide race and has pu on an active, personal campaign in an effort particularly to strengthen himself in the Democratic strongholds in the western part of the state. He has pledged full suppor of Eisenhower.

Running against D'Ewart is an Indian, Bob Yellowtail, former chairman of the Crow Indian tribal council. Yellowtail has been defeated twice in his race for the House seat which D'Ewart holds.

Montana's lineup in Congress now is both senators and one representative Democratic, and tive, D'Ewart.

Montana's primary registration, which has been growing steadily in recent years, has hit a new peak of 283,651, almost 9,000 more than in the 1952 primary.

Old Hatrack May Be Big Game Trophy

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Don't discard that buffalo horn hatrack that Uncle Brazos brought back from the Wild West—it may be a big game trophy.

For years now, as hunting pressure cuts the chances for bulls and bucks of big game species to grow into patriarchs, hunting authorities have thought wistfully of the mighty trophies stored casually away in attics.

Many such specimens, they were sure, were taken over the years by hunters who didn't know—or give a hoot—about trophy records.

The official record book is kept by the Boone and Crockett Club of America. It requires that trophy heads be scored by a standard method which calls for measurement of each individual horn or antler, some simple mathematics and a resultant point score.

In Montana, where big game is a big attraction, the Fish and Game Department has started a successful project to bring some of the forgotten trophies out of hiding. The department authorized a state award for eight classifications of heads and horns and drew 92 entries.

Many of these were incompletely scored, so the department has laid plans for refresher course to school officials in how to measure and score the heads.

Top trophy heads discovered in the first competition all were taken during the past two hunting seasons, and the department say i hinks larger, higher-scoring heads still can be uncovered.

Of the 28 best trophies recorded, none equalled the North American records, but two came close. Antlers of a wapiti — that's an elk, ladies—shot by John A. Willard of Helena last season measured nearly sixty inches in length, with an inside spread of 47 inches and developed a point score equal to second place in international rankings.

And a Shiras moose takenby C. M. Schumauch of Dillon—with an antler spread of more than 55 inches and palms about 43 by 15 inches—was worth third place internationally.

Among the bison, where some real dandies may be masquerading in parlor furniture, a 1953 bull taken by H. E. Lillis had a 17h place score and a Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep taken by Ted Williamson measured up as a likely tie for 43rd place.

Head-On Wreck Claims Lives Of Seven Persons

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J. (AP)—Two cars collided headon in a mass of mangled steel on Rt. 206 early today, killing seven persons, including all six occupants of one of the vehicles.

A third car crashed into the wreckage, but none of its four occupants was seriously hurt.

The crash occurred in Vincentown, five miles south of here, on a two lane highway that feeds the South Jersey seashore area, and tied up traffic for almost two hours.

Ironically, state police said, one of the victims, riding alone in a covertible, had been warned just before the accident to be more careful.

The victim, identified as W. O. 2 C. Harold S. Moran, 37, stationed at nearby Ft. Dix, narrowly missed colliding with a fire engine and, state police said, the firemen warned Moran to take it easy.

Others killed in the accident, all occupants of one car, were identified as:

Eugene Bruderer, about 60, of Bedford, the driver; Mrs. Margaret Laughlin, 35, his widowed daughter; Bobby Laughlin, 12, her son; Jean Laughlin, 9, her daughter; Airman 2 C. James Fleming, McGuire Air Force Base, Ft. Dix, and Phyllis Fleming, his wife, who was expecting a baby in two months.

'Machine Gun' Kelly Dies in Federal Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — George (Machine Gun) Kelly, 59, serving a life sentence for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy Oklahoma City oil man, died in the federal prison hospital early today after a heart attack. This was Kelly's birthday.

Kelly and an accomplice, Albert L. Bates, armed with a machine gun and a pistol kidnaped Urschel from his palatial Oklahoma City home shortly after midnight July 22, 1933. Urschel was released July 31 after payment of a $200,000 ransom.

Kelly, his wife Kathryn, Bates and Harvey Bailey were convicted, the first under the Lindbergh law, and given life sentences.

The dapper Kelly won his nickname, "Machine Gun," the underworld reported, because he could write his name on a wall with bullets from a machine-gun.

Belated Storm Victim

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP) — The tornado that cut through Arkansas in 1952 and took 116 lives claimed another victim two years later. James Leon Woodyard, 9, who suffered a head injury in the storm, fell into an irrigation ditch and drowned. His father said the boy had frequent, sudden fainting spells since the tornado, and officers said evidence indicated that the boy fainted and fell into the water.

Howling Gale Disrupts Maneuver in Chanel

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP)—A howling gale in the English Channel today disrupted Exercise Haul, a North Atlantic Treaty naval maneuver held in conjunction with the air defense Exercise Dividend, France, the Netherlands and Belgium were taking part.

Adm. Sir John Edelsten, Allied commander-in-chief, channel command, said bad weather all over the exercise area is interfering with operations, and aircraft patrols have had to be withdrawn at least for the time being. The exercises go on until July 25.

Mitchell Tells Ike Difference From Truman

KANSAS CITY, July 17 (AP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, national chairman of the Democratic party says the difference between ex-President Truman and President Eisenhower is this:

"Mr. Truman will stand up for his friends, come hell, high water or elections, while President Eisenhower could be talked out of speaking up for Gen. Marshall when he went to Wisconsin to campaign in October 1952."

Mitchell, who visited Truman today at his Independence home, was referring to the "conspiracy of infamy" charge Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin made against Gen. George Marshall. McCarthy claimed Marshall as postwar secretary of state was part of a conspiracy aimed to cause this country "to fall victim to Soviet intrigue from within and Russian military might from without."

Mitchell said he had discussed plans for a meeting of Democratic party leaders here early in August.

The tentative date for the conference is Aug. 6, Mitchell said, depending on how well Truman is feeling then. Truman is recovering from a major operation.

Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, and possibly other leaders will come here with Mitchell the chairman said.

"I found Mr. Truman getting along nicely," Mitchell said. "He showed much interest in developments around the country in general and politics in particular. He was much interested in plans for the campaign."

Seeks Reconsideration On Natural Gas Freeze

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) today called for a delay or change in what he said was the Federal Power Commission's FPC "hasty and ill advised" order freezing wholesale natural gas prices.

But Sen. Burke (D-Ohio) hailed the federal directive. "A major victory for the consumers," he described it.

The conflicting comments set the tone for Capitol Hill reaction on the issue today. There was a split, with scant regard for party lines, between legislators whoses tates mainly produce natural gas and those who consume it.

Both sides predicted a congressional drive of some sort to offset the surprise FPC decision. But with the adjournment target date only a fortnight away, passage of any specific legislation on the matter was deemed unlikely this session.

Clayton Schools Will Stop Race Segregation

ST. LOUIS, July 17 (AP)—Superintendent John L. Bracken said today segregation will be abandoned throughout the suburban Clayton school district in September.

He said no dissenting votes were cast when the Clayton Board of Education adopted the new policy at its regular meeting Thursday night.

The district, which includes all of Clayton and parts of Richmond Heights, has 19 Negro children of school age—less than one per cent of the total enrollment.

Bracken said it is his conviction that the U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that segregation must end "unless there are special problems, and we don't have any in Clayton."

He said the one Negro school in Clayton will be abandoned at the end of the summer recreation program. One of its two teachers is retiring, he said, and the other is being assigned to work in the district psychologist's department.

The Kirkwood Board of Education voted Monday night to end segregation in the fall for elementary pupils. Eighty-five Negro and 63 white children will be affected there.

Store Prices Down

KANSAS CITY, July 17—(AP)—Department store sales in the Kansas City Federal Reserve District were 7 percent lower in the week ending July 10 than they were in same week of 1953. There were only five business days that week, however, compared with six in the week ending July 11, 1953. The decline in Kansas City last week also was 7 percent.

They graduated together at Peru State Teachers College with highest academic honors in the class.

Now both are going to college teaching jobs in Kansas, but their ways are separating. Argabright plans to be married. Duerfeldt says he'll stick to bachelorhood for a while.

Planning Commission Wants New Department

ST. LOUIS, July 17 (AP)—The St. Louis County Planning Commission today suggested the county council consider establishment of a Department of Public Utilities to help assure a sufficient water supply for residents.

The commission, in a preliminary report, said responsibility through the state law rests with the Missouri Public Service Commission.

However, it recommended that the county "should immediately determine whether the services of the Public Service Commission in providing for a safe and adequate water supply is enough assurance or whether action on the local level is necessary also."

The report said the weather is the major factor contributing to the recent water shortage in the county and the high rise in consumption there.

State Officer Gives His View On Sheriff Battle

COLUMBIA (AP — Roy Carver, state service officer, made his contribution to a week of hectic controversy about the Boone County sheriff's office today.

The state official, whose secretary, Mrs. Helen Pauley, quit yesterday because she didn't want to occupy a desk in Sheriff Glen Powell's office, where the state office gets free rent.

She said she had been working part-time for the sheriff's office, but hadn't been paid for that work since last February.

Carver told the Boone County court today that he had never approved Mrs. Pauley's working for pay for the county, and that when he found out about it some months ago, he stopped it.

"I told the sheriff when he needed extra work done we would be glad to do it," Carver told the court, "but I never knew any money was involved."

He explained that he was willing to have Mrs. Pauley help out in the sheriff's office when she had time because of the rent-free arrangement with the county, and when he found out she was being paid he told the sheriff that she could work for him only when the sheriff requested her services through Carver.

Mrs. Pauley frequently transcribed statements taken by former Deputy Sheriff Julius Wedemeier. The sheriff fired Wedemeier late Wednesday. Yesterday, Mrs. Pauley announced her resignation.

Carver said he had no replacement for Mrs. Pauley in mind, but he added that he thinks his next secretary will be a man.

Powell called the charge that he or the county owes Mrs. Pauley for her work "nonsense."

Four Bathing Beauties Faint On Seashore

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 17—(AP)—Four of the beauties who are hoping to become Miss Universe of 1954 fainted today during the strain of a long photographic session on the hot sands of the beach.

The first to collapse was Moana Manley, "Miss New Zealand," who fell flat on her face. She was picked up by police who carried her into the nearby Pacific Coast Club. Next to faint was Martha Rocha, "Miss Brazil," who was standing in the second row of tiers formed by the 78 foreign and domestic beauties. The third to give way to the strain was Regina Ernest, "Miss Germany."

Later Christiane Nackaerts "Miss Belgium," fainted.

After being carried from the scene the girls were treated with cooling compresses, and physicians were summoned. Keh Sun Tuy, "Miss Korea," also became ill and had to be escorted to a dressing room but she did not collapse.

It was not overly hot in Long Beach today—the morning maximum was 78—but the sun was reflected by the white sands and a back drop which increased the heat in the area where the girls were posing.

All four girls recovered. Miss Belgium and Miss Brazil showed up chipper and an hour later for a luncheon engagement while Miss New Zealand and Miss Germany rested in their hotel rooms.

Miss Manley, a champion swimmer from Auckland, New Zealand, had been ill ever since her arrival but doctors said a little rest will fix her up.

Conservation and Health Camp delegates leave for Clover Point Camp on Lake of the Ozarks on July 19. Eileen Bahner of Striped College 4-H is the Health Camp delegate. Another member could have attended this fine camp had they submitted an application.

The Health and Conservation Camp delegates were selected by the Farm Bureau Rural Youth Committee. Their selection was based upon application blanks submitted by those members interested in attending.

County Livestock Show

The plans for the Pettis County 4-H Livestock Show have been made. Ross Ewing, Secretary of Missouri State Fair, has given us permission to hold the show in the Swine Pavillion on the Fair Grounds. The Show will be held on Monday, August 9th. I certainly hope that the weather on the 9th is cooler than the past week has been. If it isn't, the number of livestock exhibits may be fewer than last year.

The men and women providing the supervision of the Show are as follows: John Sneed Jr, General Superintendent; Pierre Lamy, Assistant General Superintendent; Raymond Kahrs, Superintendent and Forrest Reid, Assistant Superintendent of the Swine Division; George Gorrel, Superintendent and Merle Templeton, Assistant Superintendent of the Sheep Division; E. H. Gregory, Superintendent and Tom Harvey, Assistant Superintendent of the Beef Division; Ernest Schlobohm, Superintendent and Earl Wood, Assistant Superintendent in the Dairy Division; Mrs. M. C. Ford, Superintendent and Mrs. Ben Townsend, Assistant Superintendent of the Poultry Division.

Farm Safety Week, July 26-31

July 26-31st has been proclaimed as the nation-wide Farm Safety Week. The purpose of the week is to call attention to the increasing number of farm and home accidents in this country. I think that every person reading this column can remember of hearing of at least one farm or home accident in the last month. Chances are that you know those hurt personally.

While farm and home accidents range from bad burns or falling down basement steps to stepping on a rusty nail or getting caught in the power take-off shaft, just remember these accidents do not always happen to the other guy.

The 4-H Tractor Maintenance project emphasises the use of shields on equipment to avoid machinery accidents. You know that the best shield that can be made gives you no protection if it isn't used.

Because of the tragedies that have caused the loss of life in many cases, many of the machinery manufacturers are now equipping power driven implements with non-removable power take-off shields. They say that this is helping top rotect us against our own carelessness.

The National Safety Council records reveal horrible tragedies from the unguarded coupling — an operator can be mangled instantly. Too often the shields are left in the implement shed or in a fence row. The next time you notice a shield off or needing repair, fix it. Remember — you are the most important guy in Pettis County both to your family and yourself. So watch out for that accident!

Demonstrations Are Important

Both Community and Project Leaders should be encouraging their members to bring demonstration to Achievement Day on August 3 and 4th. Demonstrations provide one of the best teaching methods that we have in 4-H club work. I remember my mother telling some members of the May 4-H Club in McDonald County, that 4-H demonstrations taught the "double-barreled way." They not only taught those seeing the demonstration but also those giving it.

I hope that the 4-H boys in the County do not have to be ashamed of the number of agricultural demonstrations given this year. The girls in the past 3 years have given over 10 times as many demonstrations as the boys.

Evelyn Davis Takes Middlebury College Course in Language

Miss Evelyn Davis, Sedalia, a junior of Missouri Valley College, is spending a period of two months at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., Summer Language School, having been specially selected for her ability in French. At the special summer language sessions there is no language spoken except French.

Miss Davis's acceptance is significant because she has been blind since birth. Lack of sight does not handicap her from participating in college activities, however. She is familiar with the campus and the buildings. She goes about without aid of a cane nor does she need much assistance from her fellow students who are always gracious and thoughtful of her needs. She had participated in one of the college plays as a dancer, she roller skates in the gym, and is a fine musician, singing alto in the capella choir. She is a pianist of considerable ability. She is a rabid sports fan and follower of the Viking teams.

Miss Davis graduated from the Missouri School of the Blind.

Miss Davis will graduate from Missouri Valley in 1955.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Pokes Fun at Theory Snoring Is Only Sign of Affection

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the real reason people snore?

A British doctor recently advanced the theory that the snoring of husbands was a sign of affection for their wives.

He said it might be a race memory relic of the caveman who "made the noise at night to keep marauders away from the den."

Thus the husband now who keeps his wife awake with his grunts, whistles, groans and snorts may really be trying to protect the dear girl by unconsciously warning away robbers or would-be rivals.

This theory is as full of holes as a sweater hung in a closet full of moths, and the doctor who advanced it must be an amateur student of snoring. No wife I have discussed his idea with has any faith with it whatsoever.

Everyone who has heard an elderly hound dog snoring before a fireplace is sure that his eager whines and subuded barks indicate he is living over old happy hunting days in his dreams. One wife I talked to is sure that this holds equally true of her husband.

"Don't tell me that bum's snoring means he is trying to guard me and our home," she said "If that is what he were trying to do, he'd be scowling and growling in his sleep.

"But all he does is wheeze and gurgle as if he were out of breath —and when I turn on the light he has a pleased look on his face. You know what I think that proves? The old fool is dreaming about chasing some pretty blonde, and it makes me so mad I get up and pour cold water on his face. Sometimes he looks so happy while he's snoring it is all I can do to keep from slapping him."

As I know this lady's husband, I feel there may be some truth in what she says. In the office where he is employed the girls call him "old cold paws" and "Harry, the false-toothed wolf."

But what about women? The snoring of wives is becoming a real problem in many households today. Does this merely mark another step in woman's drive for equal rights—a subconscious assertion of the principle that if the man of the house can snore, she'll show him she can, too?

Or is there more to it than that? Does this increased snoring by wives indicate that in our present world of mice-men a lady feels even in her sleep she must snarl and growl to protect from danger the weak, helpless male she calls her own? That would hold true if the British doctor's theory is correct, for what's sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose.

Naturally I would hesitate even to suggest that a snoring wife might be dreaming of walking down a moonlit path with the tall, dark, handsome bachelor next door —or reliving a canoe ride with some old high school beau.

Husbands I have discussed this with gallantly rejected such a possibility. They were sure their wives were faithful to them even in their childish dreams.

"Snoring is just a form of self-expression with wives, as I see it," said one. "They are unable to make their husbands listen to them while they are awake. But women never give up, so all a wife's snoring means is that she is still trying to reach her husband's ears after she is asleep.

"She is either reminding him of something he didn't do yesterday, or giving him his advance orders for the next day. And when a man snores back at his wife he is probably just telling her all the things he didn't dare open his mouth about before he went to bed.

"When both husband and wife snore it's likely to be a happy family, as each of them gets off his chest in their sleep whatever they had on their mind when they were awake."

The other husbands agreed this was the best possible explanation of snoring.

IN PUSAN—Pvt. W. D. Martensen, husband of the former Imogene Schroder, is now stationed at Pusan, Korea, with the U.S. Army. He received his basic training at Ft. Riley, Kan., and recently spent a months' leave in Sedalia with his wife and relatives.

First governorship of Oregon Territory was offered to Abraham Lincoln, who declined, and Gen. Joseph Lone took the position.

Reds Threaten Prison For GI Held 12 Days

FUERTH, Germany (AP) — Seven American soldiers held 12 days in Communist Czechoslovakia said today their captors threatened them with imprisonment if they did not reveal U.S. military secrets.

Capt. Jack Davis, 31, of Raytown, Mo. — one of the captives — said Czech army officers told the men "after a year or so (in prison) you will probably give better answers."

Davis, speaking for the others at a news conference in an Army military courtroom crowded with photographers and newsmen, said they were never bodily harmed or threatened with physical violence.

The seven are: Davis, Pvt. Richard J. Jumper, 21, Bonneville, Miss., Pfc. Leonard D. Tennis, 18, Alliance, Ohio, Cpl. John F. Glasson, 24, Oakdale, Calif., Pfc. Jerry W. Griffth, 22, Springfield, Ohio, Pfc. George Switzer, 23, Milburn, Neb. and Pvt. Ross McGinnis, 21, Greensburg, Pa.

Davis, chubby, freckeled medical officer, said the men went to the border July 4 "to take a look," and that they were captured by a roving Czech border patrol of about 20 armed men.

He said the Czechs fired several warning shots at the men "so they could capture us."

After they were captured, Davis said he protested and explained they were only on a holiday.

The seven appeared nervous but otherwise seemed fit. They had changed from the rumpled, dirty clothing they wore on their release July 15, and were neat and clean shaven.

Davis said the Czechs took them from Baernau West Germany crossing point to an unknown destination inside Czechoslovakia.

"We do not know where we were held," Davis continued. "It may have been Prague and it may not. We were held in prisons, that's all we know."

When the men were first captured, the Czechs turned their cloth garrison caps inside out and shoved them down over the men's eyes in an improvised blindfold.

"I pulled my cap back up to see several times," Davis said, "but a guard jammed it back down over my eyes as they led us away. They meant business."

Davis, whose wife and children live in Darmstadt, said their captors spoke only in Czech and it was not until that night that an English speaking officer questioned them individually.

None of the Americans was armed but McGinnis and Switzer both carried cameras.

"They took my camera away from me," McGinnis said, "and I didn't get it back until just before I was returned across the border. They took the film of the pictures I had taken to send back to the folks at home. They'll never get them now.

"None of the pictures was taken at the border, but back from it on the German side," he explained.

Davis said that after they had trudged for some time with the makeshift blindfolds around their eyes, they arrived at a house.

"We were taken individually to other rooms where the Czechs took most of our personal things, which included our billfolds, identification cards, wrist watches and the like. Then they put us into a vehicle after handcuffing us.

"Then they took us to a larger building where we were seated in a row. They copied our names off the identification cards. They caught us at about 5:30 p.m. and by then it had grown dark. After we were seated in the second building, a Czech officer arrived and interrogated us in English for about an hour."

Davis said that these first questions were of "a military nature," but did not elaborate.

"I explained that we were only sightsteers on a holiday and didn't know we had crossed the border, if we actually had crossed it."

No threats were made at this first interrogation, but the Czechs insisted that the men, all members of a medical detachment, were spies.

"After that, we were handled individually. We were all separated and did not see each other during our confinement," Davis continued.

"Altogether, we were moved to three different places, and when we were moved we were blindfolded so that we could not even tell which direction we were moving.

"They questioned us in all six or seven times, sometimes as long as six hours. I remember one day when they took me out for questioning after breakfast, then I returned for lunch to my cell and right after lunch they took me out for questioning again.

"They questioned me on everything ranging from military subjects to American politics and Sen. McCarthy," Davis went on.

Tennis said his treatment was similar.

"I was questioned quite roughly. They shouted and yelled at me and shook their fists at me but they did not strike me or use other physical violence," he said.

Davis said his interrogator asked him if he knew what McCarthy's job was. He replied that the Wisconsin senator was on a senatorial committee and the Czech did not pursue the question further.

Kentucky Mayor Must Take Salary, But He Gives It Back Quick

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky law forces mayors to accept pay, but it hasn't kept Kayor C. W. Lampkin from giving each check to a community-welfare group.

The hotel operator has given a monthly check—$333.33 — to the Bowling Green Boys' club, the Baptist mission, a fund to beautify the downtown park, the Welfare Center and the Negro Boys Club.

He also has paid $100 from his own pocket for reclamation of the Negro cemetery and has financed the landscaping of the city hall lawn.

Lampkin, appointed mayor by Gov. Lawrence Wetherby after Bowling Green moved up to a fourth-class population rating last year, is unopposed for a four-year term at the upcoming election.

He attempted to serve without pay. When the city's legal department told him he had t otake his salary, Lampkin said he would "give every penny of it for the welfare of the community."

Supreme Court Finds Determined Opponent In Herman Talmadge

Editor's note: One of the South's most outspoken opponents to the Supreme Court's ruling banning segregation in public schools is Georgia's outgoing Gov. Herman Talmadge. Here's a closeup of a man who stands at the forefront of those who are sworn to resist mixing Negroes and Whites in schools.

ATLANTA, July 17 (AP)—Sometime this fall the Supreme Court of the United States probably will run head-on into Herman Eugene Talmadge, advocate supreme of "White supemacy."

The court will be seeking ways of putting into practice its decision outlawing segregation in the schools. In Georgia, it will have to deal with Talmadge, who has openly declared war on the decision.

Negroes and Whites will never go to the same schools as long as he is governor, says the square-jawed, cigar-smoking "Hummon," who is winding up his sixth year in office, a record tenure in this state.

"Never" is a long time, and Talmadge will be retiring from office at the end of the year. But before then — and probably for some time after since his political organization is strong — he is expected to put up quite a fight.

Talmadge first came into temporary office in a spectacular fight, in which, for 63 days, two men claimed to be governor of Georgia.

"Georgia," he said, "will resist the decision even if we stand alone."

He has indicated some doubt about the court's ability to enforce its rulings. He recalled a statement once made by President Andrew Jackson in another court fight more than 100 years ago. Referring to the chief justice then, Jackson said, "John Marshall made his decision, now let him enforce it."

Talmadge, who alternately speaks in the dignified tones of a governor and the rustic vernacular of his "wool hat" followers on the farms, also points out that the Georgia Constitution makes separation of races mandatory here. He says:

"Whether any Southern state continues to maintain separate schools and colleges will depend to a great degree on the personal courage and integrity of the state's chief executive and his will to resist. I believe that 95 per cent of our people, both white and colored, want segregation continued in their schools.

"Under our Georgia law, the governor is director of the budget and as such has broad powers over state expenditures. I shall never sign a budget proving state funds for any mixed schools or colleges."

Like the red suspenders he dons for rural campaigns, Talmadge inherited his devotion to "White supremacy" and his stubbornness in a fight from his father, the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge. Shortly after his first election as governor —the first office he ever held — Herman said:

"My name is spelled T-a-l-m-a-d-g-e. People criticized my father for being stubborn. They said he was so stubborn he wouldn't take advice from anyone.

"Now I notice that if you breed a white-faced bull to a white-faced cow, you get a white-faced calf."

The "White-faced" has so consistently opposed any mixture of the races he was even aroused by the integration of electronic images on television.

In 1952, writing in his political newspaper, The Statesman, the governor complained about certain TV shows from New York or Hollywood where Negro and white singers and dancers performed together.

He said that while these shows were beamed to the South they violated the South's segregation laws.

"Good taste alone should prevent such a situation," he said, and suggested that action be taken to arouse the resentment of Southern members of Congress.

Talmadge denies he is anti-Negro or is practicing racial discrimination, however.

"Negroes," he said, "have benefitted more in my administration than under any other. I equalized white and Negro teachers' salaries. We have built schools and hospitals. They receive the increased health services, welfare benefits and agricultural services."

Among his detractors, Talmadge has been called a "demogogue." He has been charged with trying to set up a "dictatorship" and a political dynasty in Georgia along the lines of the late Huey Long's regime in Louisiana.

He has proved as unyielding as his fiery father on the question of racial segregation and Georgia's county unit voting system.

The county unit system is somewhat similar to the National Electoral College but is weighted so that the thinly populated counties control the Democratic primaries in this one-party state.

Each county has at least two votes and a maximum of six, depending on its population. A candidate in a primary who wins a county's popular votes then receives all the county's unit votes. Primaries are decided on the basis of the total county unit votes.

In practice, opponents, have charged, it requires 122 votes in Atlanta, for example, to equal one vote in the rural county of Echols. Herman Talmadge, like his father before him, has always been strongest in the rural areas.

In 1950, a suit was filed in federal court attacking the constitutionality of the unit voting system. Talmadge immediately went to its defense. He called the suit a plot to "disenfranchise the white people in rural areas and enfranchise the great horde of bloc voters in urban areas."

According to opponents, the "horde" referred to Negro voters in the cities whose votes, critics said, were being drastically undermined.

The case finally ended in the U. S. Supreme Court, which refused to strike down the unit voting system on the grounds that federal courts had no rigat to interfere with the way a state apportions its voting strength geographically.

In 1951, Talmadge pushed a bill to make all newspapers and magazines in Georgia "subject to regulation by the state." The state house slapped down the effort by a vote of almost 2 to 1. But yielding to administration pressure, the Senate passed two other restrictive newspaper bills, later side tracked by the House.

As a governor, Talmadge is a hard worker who has little regard for fence-straddling politicians.

On the wall of the mahogany-paneled office he and his father have occupied a total of 12 years, he keeps the roll call vote on several of his pet pieces of legislation. They can be seen by any legislator seeking the governor's help.

The governor also is careful to make sure all his appointments go to "our friends." But he holds few unyielding grudges, even for past opponents. A recent caller on the governor complained of a mutual acquaintance: "That SOB has always been against us and now he's trying to join us."

"If he's repented," said the governor, "let's take him. Even SOB's still vote in Georgia."

In many ways, the present governor is unlike his father. Where moody, intense, restless "Old Gene" fought for or against something almost every minute of his life, Herman sometimes is quietly determined, calm, deliberate and unruffled.

Although stubborn to a point, he is not one to cling to a hopelessly untenable position, especially where he has lost public support.

"Old Gene" Talmadge used to thunder against New Deal spending and thump for economy in government and lower taxes.

"You want to know how to keep a government honest?" he often asked his "wool hat" followers. "Keep it pore."

But before Herman Talmadge is through, his administration will have spent more than a billion dollars. He proudly boasts that he has kept his promise to build 10,000 miles of roads and that his administration has provided more money for education than all previous administrations combined.

Talmadge, who is 40, was a farmer and a lawyer before he turned to politics. Before the war, he managed several of his father's campaigns. During the war, in which he saw combat duty with the Navy in the Pacific, he said several times he was through with politics.

But in 1946 he again managed his father's campaign. His father won a fourth term but died 23 days before his inaugural.

In a dramatic, predawn session, early in 1947, the Talmadge-dominated Legislature elected "Hummun" to sit in the governor's chair. But Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson claimed the office by succession.

Herman's forces changed locks in the Capitol one night to capture the governor's office physically. In the next two months of tumult and confusion the state had two governors. Finally, young Talmadge quietly gave up the job when the State Supreme Court ruled that Thompson should serve as acting governor pending an election to fill the remaining two years of the elder Talmadge's term.

Herman Talmadge won that election. Now that he is ineligible to succeed himself as governor, he says he has no political plans at the moment. But his friends expect him to be a candidate for the U.S. Senate in 1956 if Walter F. George Retires, or for governor again in 1958.

In 1937, a year after his graduation from law school, Talmadge married Kathyrn Williams, a professional model. They were divorced three years later. In 1941, Talmadge married Leila Elizabeth Shingler of Ashburn. They have two sons.

Republicans Implore Flanders To Drop His Vote on McCarthy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — Important backstage huddles have been taking place among both Democratic and Republican senators regarding Joe McCarthy. Upon these huddles will depend the outcome of the big test vote on McCarthy which Senators Flanders of Vermont is bringing to a head next week.

The huddling among Republican senators has been to urge Flanders not to force them to a vote. Some senators, such as Saltonstall of Massachusetts, have said:

"If you call for a vote it will defeat me. For I'll have to vote for your resolution."

What Saltonstall referred to was the strong McCarthy sentiment among the Boston Irish and the fact that he faces a tough re-election fight. This was why he ducked having the Army-McCarthy probe referred to his armed services committee as the White House orginally suggested.

However, Ralph Flanders is as inflexible as the granite of his own mountainous Vermont, a state which voted Republican even during the Roosevelt landslide of 1936. Like many other New England Republicans, Flanders believes that the party should be purged of un-Republican influences, and he considers McCarthy one of them.

By no means a radical, Flanders began life as a machine-tool designer, now owns his own factory, is a millionaire. He was president of the Bryant Chucking Grinder Co. until elected to the Senate, is director of various insurance companies, was president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, has a distinguished record as an engineer.

And having watched McCarthy from the sidelines for four years, he is convinced the Republican party cannot shirk the responsibility of voting for or against McCarthy's retention as chairman.

Flanders thinks he has 12 Republican senators who will vote with him. Other senators say he is too optimistic. But whether right or wrong, Flanders is determined to call for a showdown vote.

Backstage huddling among Democratic senators is over how they should line up on the Flanders vote. If most of them line up with Flanders, McCarthy will lose his chairmanship. For they control one-half of the Senate.

However, the likable and elusive leader of the Senate Democrats, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, has decreed otherwise.

Exactly two years ago, Johnson was in about the same position on about the same issue. A Senate subcommittee had just adopted unanimously the most devastating report on McCarthy's finances ever made on a fellow senator. And the big question was: "What action should Democratic senators take?"

Johnson ruled: "no action at all." Other senators, such as Fulbright of Arkansas and Hennings of Missouri, believed the Senate should face the issue of McCarthyism then and there. So did Neely of West Virginia.

Republicans were then busy challenging other senators, but not McCarthy. They challenged Democratic Senator Chavez of New Mexico and their own Republican colleague, Langer of North Dakota, by refusing to let them take their seats permanently as they walked down the center aisle. They faced the humiliation of being seated subject to later vote and investigation.

But as the senator from Wisconsin walked up to the rostrum to take the oath, not one voice rang out to challenge him — despite the fact that only a few hours earlier a critical 400-page document on McCarthy's finances had been unanimously adopted and published for every senator to read.

The reason Lyndon Johnson ducked the McCarthy issue at that time was attributed to the fact that Texas oilmen were heavily behind McCarthy. Lyndon feared they might put a candidate in the race against him if he bucked McCarthy. So, as the Louisville Courier-Journal pointed out, the policies of the Democratic party in the Senate were shaped by the election ambitions of one man rather than the good of the nation.

These were the circumstances under which McCarthyism was ducked two years ago, and it was this evasion that helped win for the senator from Texas the nickname of "Lyin'-down" Johnson.

Today Johnson faces no important election opposition. The son of a wealthy but nonpolitical oilman, Dudley Dougherty, is running against him, but will get nowhere. It will be a walkaway for Lyndon. However, the handsome Texan has passed the word to Democratic colleagues that the vote on McCarthy is a Republican battle, and the Democrates will not line up one way or the other. A majority will probably vote against Flanders and inferentially for McCarthy on the technicality that seniorty rule for committee chairmanships must not be disturbed.

Mamies Nightmare

Mamie Eisenhower had such a terrifying dream the other afternoon that she confided to friends she wished she had never gone to sleep.

She took a short cat-nap while Ike was out playing golf and dreamed she had become blind. The dream was so horrible that she was white and nervous when the President returned to the White House.

Later she learned that two guests had tiptoed through the room while she was asleep.

"I wish to goodness they had awakened me," she told her friends.

More Business

Charles P. Taft, brother of the late Ohio senator, has been beating the bushes all over the United States for the past year as President of the Committee for a National Trade Policy, in support of lower tariffs.

He has found it a hard bill of goods to sell.

"There are in key places men who took in the protective tariff with their mothers' milk," he says. "They still refuse to look at the facts of American life as they have developed since that time." Also, he has found many businessmen who believe in lower tariffs but are not articulate.

"They don't like to stick their necks out and they don't make good witnesses. If they show up their fellow businessmen on facts, it does not make them popular.

"I've been doing that from coast to coast," Mr. Taft says, "and there are some places where I won't get any more law business for sure."

Rejection of Winnie's Views Sends Him Home Unhappy

By Bruce Biossat

When Prime Minister Churchill declined to see reporters as he sailed for home from New York, it was specaulated that this reflected his disappointment with his talks with President Eisenhower.

The old man might have been tired at that point, but it certainly is a good guess that he found his visit to America disappointing.

The most positive accomplishment to come out of the meeting was the joint determination of Mr. Eisenhower and Sir Winston that the free world position in Western Europe be not allowed to deteriorate.

In the long delay over ratification of the six-nation European army project, Western-minded Chancellor Adenauer has seen his position grow gradually worse.

Germany, of course, was to be included in the European army. Adenauer linked his fortunes with it, and with the American policies that supported it. As EDC has suffered, so has Adenauer's political prestige.

Sir Winston may have some curious notions about how total peace can be achieved with hostile communism. But he is not blind to the value of existing defense arrangements under NATO, nor to the need for German armed might to buttress that force.

Consequently, neither he nor the President want to see any serious damage to Adenauer's power. They have therefore spoken firmly of the need to grant quickly the full sovereignty Germany has been expecting for more than two years.

Once that is done, they are prepared as well to undertake consideration of alternative ways (outside EDC) to draw German military strength into the Western alliance. With or without lagging France, they intend to go ahead.

No one ought to minimize the importance of this Churchill-Eisenhower accord. But it cannot be denied that Asia, not Europe, is the more glaring danger spot right now, and here it is obvious the two leaders did not see eye to eye.

One may fairly view it as significant that since the Churchill visit, Australia, New Zealand and the United have called for quick action on an Asiatic anti-Communist pact. There is no mention of Britain.

The understanding is that Sir Winston made plain at the White House that Britain would lend not a single soldier to the defense of any part of Indo-China.

But the old man's disappointment is not simply that the two great English-speaking nations disagree on this proposed alliance. What really causes him chagrin is our refusal to accept his concept of the "live and let live" philosophy in world politics.

Sir Winston is willing to carve the world into Communist and free-nation spheres of influence, accepting this division of land and power as more or less permanent.

We, too, subscribe to "co-existence" in the sense that we will not foment war with Russia or its satellites. But we cannot accept as permanent the slavery of millions whose wish for freedom we understand all too clearly.

Therefore, we cannot help but frown on the sort of talks Sir Winston would like to have with Russian leaders, and the sort of mutual non-aggression pacts he would like to arrange both in Europe and in Asia. Therein lies the basic difference, the disparity of view that sent Sir Winston home with disappointment in his heart.

Nervousness in Pregnancy Is Not Likely to Affect Child

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

When one thinks about it, it seems entirely natural that primitive human beings should have had all kinds of explanations for things which befell them. One of the most persistent beliefs is that what happens to a woman when she is pregnant will affect the physical or mental qualities of the expected offspring.

For a long time physicians tended to laugh this off as being impossible, though lately there has been renewed interest in the subject.

Q—If, during pregnancy, a woman is very nervous and worried, is it possible that it will haveany bad effects on the child she is carrying? Can this be transmitted as a neurosis to the child?

A—In the light of present knowledge it seems extremely unlikely that worry or emotional disturbances will have any direct effect on the nervous system of the child. Of course, there are some aspects of the nervous constitution of the mother which might be present in the gram cells and, therefore, transmitted as an hereditary quality to the offsprink. A neurosis, however, is not considered to be hereditary.

* * *

Q—I have been on a diet for three years and have been taking dexedrine. I have lost 100 pounds but now find it hard to stop taking the dexedrine. What would you suggest?

A—Congratulations on losing your extra weight. If you cannot stop taking the dexedrine yourself, you should go to your physician, who may be able to give you some advice or medication which would help you to give up this drug. Yours is an experience which explains why I feel so strongly that people should not take active drugs unless they check periodically with their physicians.

* * *

Q—For several years I have been troubled on occasions with itching and cracking between my toes. Is this conditions serious or dangerous and what would you recommend?

This sounds like a definite skin disease, quite possibly ringworm or dermatophytosis. In any event I should think it should receive attention from a physician, probably a skin specialist.

* * *

Q—Does a woman who is still menstruating regularly, regardless of age, have a chance to get pregnant? In other words, can a woman have a baby even though she is in her changing years and has never given birth to a child previously?

A—Yes to both questions.

* * *

Q—Two of my many male friends are wearing copper rings around their wrists. I asked one of them one day why he wore the ring, and he told me that the copper gradually wore away and it rheumatism and a lot of kindred ailments. This entered his system, thus preventing arthritis and is a new one on me. Is it true?

A—It is a new one on me too.

Unions Build Plush Command Posts—

Labor's Boom in Washington Adds Up to a $15 Million Real Estate Investment

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The nation's labor leaders are getting themselves some plush command and observation posts in town for keeping a close eye on the administration and the governmt.

Dave Beck, for instance, head of the large AFL International Union of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers, will soon move into a new $4 million marble headquarters with a clear, uninterruped view of the Capitol.

Beck's private suite has a giant picture window facing the Senate side. It's close enough for him to read the fine print on any labor legislation with low-powered binoculars merely by twisting his leather swivel chair.

In fact, every member on Beck's staff can sepnd lunch hours and coffee breaks watching congressional antics. On top of the new building will be a penthouse with sun deck, snack bar, lounge and ping pong tables.

Other features of the building include inside parking facilities, a large auditorium with a telephone system connecting each seat—comparable to the set-up in the UN—a restaurant and kitchens and complete conference suites.

Beck had hoped to have the formal opening this Labor Day with President Eisenhower attending. But Ike is going to be out of town and the building won't be quite finished so they're going to have the ceremonies in October.

George Meany, president of the parent AFL, is getting himself a new headquarters across Lafayette Square from the White House. His suite wil have a large balcony almost close enough for a good mashie shot at Ike's bedroom window. The building is next to the St. John's Episcopal Church which Ike attends.

The AFL headquarters will also have auditoriums and conference rooms, and office space for the other AFL affiliates which don't already have headquarters here.

Five other large union organizations are either building new Washington headquarters, planning to move here soon, or buying new buildings to house their staffs.

It all adds up to an estimated $15 million real estate investment.

Some significance is attached to the fact that the Retail Clerks International Association, AFL, has purchased a large new building right across the street from the popular Mayflower Hotel cocktail lounge. A lot of semi-official government and legislative business is said to be carried on in that hotel.

The retail clerks will be moving here from Lafayette, Ind., early in the fall.

Also overlooking the Capitol grounds is the recently completed headquarters for the AFL Letter Carriers Union.

Down the street from the Mayflower Hotel on Connecticut Ave., the powerful International Association of Machinists is going to erect a handsome $2½ million structure to house its staff of 250 employees. It will rent part of this valuable space for offices and stores.

The International Union of Workers and the Milk Drivers Local Union 246 are two more unions planning headquarters here.

There are several unions, including the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, looking for possible headquarters sites here.

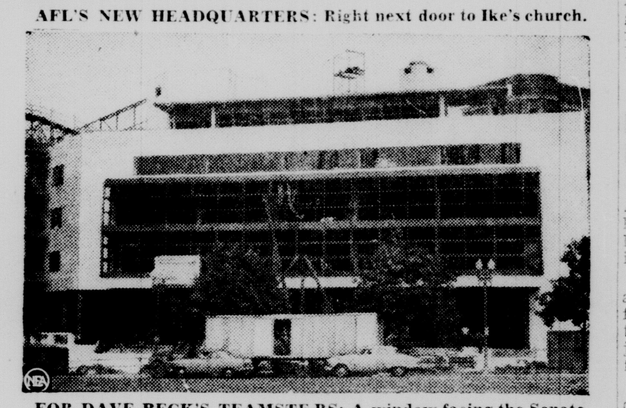
When this major shift of unions to Washington is complete it will bring close to 45 of them within the District of Columbia. Together they will represent an estimated 15,000,000 workers.

As an investment for its surplus funds the AFL Electrical Workers Union has built a huge, swank 365-unit apartment building near the heart of town. It also has a large headquarters here.

Topping all of these real estate holdings, however, is John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Union. Not including a bank which Lewis is seeking to control, his UMW owns seven large buildings in the city.

Because the CIO affiliates are mostly industrial type unions, in contrast to AFL's craft and trade unions, most of them are located near the industry which supports them. However, they all have large staffs in Washington.

AFL'S NEW HEADQUARTERS: Right next door to Ike's church.



FOR DAVE BECK'S TEAMSTERS: A window facing the Senate.

FOR THE MACHINISTS: A handsome $2½ million structure.

Odds and Ends By News Staff

IT WAS SO HOT that the man and woman in one house decided they would move outside for the night, so the man got the cots out and set them up out in the yard and they went to bed.

Just about the time the man was dozing off their little dog scratched him on the arm.

"Go on lie down", said the man, and started to doze off again. But the little dog just wasn't going to let him. Again he scratched at his arm. This time the man got up, went down in the basement, brought up the little dog's bed and put it down beside his cot.

That was all the dog wanted. After all, the man had simply forgotten an important item. If the family was going to sleep outside he wanted his bed out there, too.

Biggest Jet Airliner Passes Flight Test

SEATTLE (AP)—The plane Boeing Airplane Co. believes is the world's largest and fastest jet airliner has left its nest and proved its wings in a dramatic flight test.

The big ship, dubbed the 707 and built to serve as an airliner for the commercial airways or a tanker to haul fuel for Air Force jet bombers, took off on its maiden flight yesterday.

The takeoff of the 110,000-pound craft came at a point two thirds of the way down the 5,400-foot runway at Renton Municipal Airport. Its four 10,000-horsepower jet engines had boosted it into the air in 17 seconds. Within 15 minutes it was at 20,000 feet. An hour and 24 minutes later it landed after what its pilots said was a faultless flight.

Company officials said no speed test was involved but the big craft, designed to carry 130 passengers in its massive belly, is supposed to be capable of a speed of 550 mile an hour.

The company says it has invested 16 million dollars in the ship.

Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, signers of the Declaration of Independence and former Presidents, both died July 4, 1826, 50 years to a day after the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration.

It would take the work of a million men to repair the damage done in the United States by insects.

THE STORY: Through Herman Glutz, Milo and his pupil, Fred Anspach, have been matched to appear at a local burlesque theater against unnamed wrestling opponents. Fred finds being back-stage very exciting.

* * *

XIV

SUDDENLY all those rows of lights across the front of the stage went out, and a loud-speaker began saying, louder than the orchestra, even, "We are proud to present Dawn O'Day, a lovely little dancer—and we mean lovely."

She turned out to be the red-headed girl that looked like Betty Jane Blane, only bigger. The same make truck, but on a larger chassis, so to speak—on a much larger chassis. Just one round light went on and there she was in the middle of it. She looked even more beautiful than when she had passed where we were dressing so often. She had on a blue dress that began up under her chin and went clear to the floor. Instead of dancing, like she was supposed to, all she did was walk up and down.

At first Milo just sat there, hardly watching. He could get the saddest of any man I ever knew, and he was sure that way now. Then Dawn started to undo her dress, and I could see him begin to take interest in spite of himself. You never saw a dress with so many hooks and zippers.

There was a noise just like a tire getting punctured and at first I didn't know what to think, but Dawn O'Day still looked pumped up full, and then I realized it was Milo exhaling his breath. "Is beautiful," he whispers. "Milo no see womans like she, never." He couldn't take his eyes off her, and when she ran past us, still undressed the same, he said, "Fed, is terrible. Milo no can wrestle. Milo in love."

This was a fine how are you. "You can't lay down to the Italian fellow who called you names," I said, which was psychology, for he might have been a Turk for all I knew, but Milo disliked Italians.

"No can help, Fed. She like lamb. White like cloud. Milo bad, me."

I could have said a lot of nice things about Dawn O'Day myself, but she was too big for a lamb and too solid for a cloud. Besides, just at that moment up comes the manager and says, "You, handsome. What's your name?"

Anybody would know he didn't mean Milo, so I said, "Fred Anspach."

He looked at me real hard. "That's no name for a wrestler," he says. "But you're no Terrible Turk, either. And with them features, none of the Bull names, like Montana or Koimar, or any of the Angels. . . ."

* * *

HE appeared to stop to think, and if that is what he did, no thinking was ever more inspirational.

"Quick, you're on the mat in two minutes. Anspach is a German name, I guess, although I never heard it before. Who did Germany ever contribute to the world of sports besides Schmeling?"

I could of told him, but time was going-on aspace, as they say in books. Before I could even think, he says, "I know, Hackenschmidt."

There went the mat on those wheels they call dollies. The fellow who sang with the girl through most of the show appears on it about the time it gets put down on the stage, and a microphone comes from somewhere for him to talk through. I hear, "On my right, Sailor Hackenschmidt," and really thought it was my opponent, until the manager began to push me through the ropes. I don't remember the name of the tramp who was my versus. When he had been hired by the manager it was an act of charity. Following my instructions, I tried to keep him on his feet as long as I could, so the downstairs customers could see what he looked like, if they wanted to. I can't even remember what hold I used to pin him. From in back, on the stage, I heard some woman's voice shouting, "Choke him, Honeyboy! Twist his head off!"

It was this Dawn O'Day, the strip-teaser, as I learned they called her act afterward, and the audience began yelling Honeyboy too. It was quite a sensation, standing there with the footlights beaming on me. Right beyond was the deep pit where the orchestra sat during the show. I could see the horns and the drums and the big bass fiddle, where they had been left. The manager comes out and practically drags me away. He turned out to be a jealous character, I think because of Dawn rooting for me.

* * *

ANYWAY, this marked a turning point in my career, as ever since, Honeyboy Hackenschmidt has been my professional sobriquet, which is another word for alias.

The loud-speaker announced Milo and the other guy, who called himself Ten-Minute Galento, meaning that nobody lasted with him more than 10 minutes. He had looked dangerous enough in clothes, but out of them he was terrific. He must have tipped the scales at as much as Milo, but it was the kind of muscle that stuck out in hunks, all over. He must of been six feet tall, and little Milo, waddling along behind him, was a pathetic sight, especially as he looked like he was going to burst into tears at any moment.

I tried to cheer him up, but he says, "Is no use, Fed. Mens in love weak like baby. No can throw fall'."

It doesn't do any good. Galento has already gone to his corner when Milo goes on the mat and I take his robe. He makes a funny little bow and the audience and the folks in the show almost spit their sides laughing.

HOT WEATHER

The temperature goes up and up,
Your energy does down,
You feel just like a lazy pup,
You scarce can move aroun'.
You wipe the sweat from off your brow,
You turn once more the fan,
The breeze it makes is hot, somehow,
This summer heat—Oh, man!
You have an ice cold drink at hand,
You take it sup by sup,
Your eyes feel like theyr'e filled with sand,
The temperature goes up.
You try to think of something nice,
You think of wintertime,
With zero weather, even ice,
Yet the mercury will climb.
The bird bath is a popular spot
Where little birds may sip
And since the weather is so hot
Hop in and take a dip.
The youngsters in the neighborhood
Resort to hose and sprays
And their idea seems to good
Upon these sultry days.
The tiniest has a private pool
For which he makes a dash
And in he jumps, its nice and cool
He likes to sit and splash.
The garden pool's inviting, too,
The little doggie finds,
It seems that everyone but you
Has thoughts of various kinds.
But you just sit and stew and sweat
Your brain is in a fog,
The birds and children all get wet
And even, yes, the dog.
So you go hunt your swimming suit,
Your figure's not so trim,
But no one else looks very cute,
So, go on—take a swim.

Mrs. Maude Horton Has Lived Full Life, Reflected in Teaching, Music, Faith

By Hazel Lang

Mrs. Maud Finnell Horton has the same sweet voice and wonderful disposition that she had years ago when her brother-in-law used to drop by on wash day just for fun and ask her to sing for him.

"No other woman in the world would do that", Will Beasmore would laugh and tell people, "But Maud will leave her washing, wipe her hands, go into the piano and play and sing as long as I will stay, as if she had nothing else to do."

Maud Horton was then Mrs. Roy Finnell and had a family of children to care for, but everything was all right with her. She loved to sing and she loved to do things to please people. Maud was one of four Stine girls: Georgie, who was the wife of Will Beasmore, both now dead; Ethel, who is Mrs. F. O. Withers, Sedalia; and Gussie, who is Mrs. Gussie Hyland, now living in California.

She wasn't born in Sedalia, but came here when she was six years old. For 61 years she has been a member of Epworth Methodist church and from a young girl until the past few years sang in the choir of that church. She still is active in church work. While always devout in her church, she never tried to impress people with her religion — she never mentioned it — but the life she has lived proves her Christian faith.

It was in 1919 that Roy Finnell died after a short illness and left her with five children, and in less than a month she was called upon to sing at a funeral in the same church where Roy's funeral was held and she did. It took courage to do a thing like that and it took more courage to carry on with life. The youngest of her five children was only two years old.

The young widow had taught school, a rural school, one year before she married, but she had only three years of high school. That was the only thing she knew to do. She would fit herself for a teacher. If she was to rear her children she had to do something, so she went to Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, finished her high school work and for eight summers attended college. In the winters she taught. She also took post graduate work at the University of Missouri and had more than enough credits for her doctor's degree. She would take her youngsters, the youngest of them, with her to Warrensburg.

All through she made honor grades at college and was a member of the national honorary educational fraternity, Kappa Delta Pi. She majored in social science and in music. For five years she taught in Washington School, five years she was principal of Arlington, until the school closed, and ten years she taught in Smith-Cotton.

Her oldest daughter, Marvel, went to C. B. C., then went to work for the State Fair Floral Company. She later married J. A. Greutter and went to Little Rock where she is a floral decorator.

Her oldest son, Anson, former chief of police, lives on a farm near Warsaw where he raises, buys and sells stock.

Jeanette is Mrs. J. W. Starke, who lives at 1619 East Ninth. She is a nurse, taking her training in Kansas City.

Isabell is also a nurse in the Thornton-Minor Hospital in Kansas City.

The youngest of the family was Stine, who taught in Whittier school and lacked only a quarter of getting his master's degree. He was a scoutmaster and active in affairs of the town, when during World War II, as a volunteer officer candidate, he died of a heart ailment while in service.

Maud Finnell had been a widow 20 years, she had worked and reared her family. Then one day J. D. Horton of El Paso, Tex., a former Sedalian, came back on a visit. He was an engineer on the Southern Pacific and she had known him for years. He was a friend of her father-in-law. Mr. Horton wanted her to marry him and she did, going then to El Paso where she spent nine years until his death in 1948. She returned to Sedalia then and still has her home in El Paso which she rents. Three of her children were in Missouri, as was her sister, so back home she came.

A year or so ago her son-in-law, J. W. Starke, built her a home in the same yard with their home and there she lives. She does many things, reads and enjoys life to the fullest and writes letters, two or three every day, always with her pieces of mail going out every month amounting to 120 to 130 pieces.

She doesn't sing in the choir of her beloved church any more because she can't get up and down the steps so well, but still sings as lovely as ever, and her gift of singing has been handed down to her children, as well as her gift for happiness.

Twin Brothers Get First Meal on Hike As Guests of Sheriff

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Twelve-year-old twin brothers who started a 650-mile hitch hiking trip from Missouri five days ago finally got their first square meal—as guests of Sheriff Victor Jordan.

The two had $20 with them, but said they were saving their money.

Jordan said that county police picked up Charles and John Hager last night, and the boys said they'd been hitch hiking—mostly hiking—from Perryville, Mo., since Sunday.

The boys said they were traveling to see relatives at Green Bay, 50 miles farther north. Jordan sent them on, in custody of juvenile authorities until family connections are made.

Cards Lose To Giants In 11 Innings, 9-10

ST. LOUIS, July 17 (AP) — Don Mueller's sacrifice fly in the 11th inning brought in the winning run today as the league-leading New York Giants, bouncing back after blowing a nine-run lead, defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-9.

In a thrilling 3-hour and 34-minute game in which each side used six pitchers, the Giants shored their decisive run off Harvey Haddix, St. Louis southpaw star, as a result of singles by pinch-hitter Bobby Hoffman and Alvin Dark followed by Mueller's sacrifice fly.

Mueller earlier had driven in two runs as New York surged to a 9-0 lead by knocking out starter Royce Lint with two runs in the first innin gand then tallying seven times in the third off Deal, a victim of four unearned runs when Ray Jablonski erred twice at third case.

St. Louis, shut out for five innings, kayoed lefty ace Johnny Antonelli with five runs in the sixth, scored three more off Hoyt Wilhelm in the seventh, then tied in the eighth against Don Liddle and Marv Grisson when Dhitey lockman dropped a double-play throw at first base. Jablonski started the Cards' sixth and seventh inning rallies with base hits.

Grissom, however, checked the Cardinals thereafter to record his ninth victory against four defeats, though it was southpaw John McCall who protected the overtime lead by retiring the Redbirds in order in the eleventh. Haddix's setback was his sixth against 13 triumphs.

Rip Repulski of the Cardinals drove in three runs and had four hits. Red Schoendienst of St. Louis and Monte Irvin of the Giants collected three apiece, and Irvin knocked in three runs.

Correspondent Wins $137,100 Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 17—(AP)—Correspondent turned in the greatest upset in the history of the $137,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap today when he beat out the heavy favorite, Rejected, in the run for the guaranteed hundred grand.

Scoring a wire to wire victory, the 4-year-old pride of Mrs. Gordon Guiberson of California held off a belated rush by the King Rranch's Rejected to win by about a length.

Trusting, another surprise package, hung on to take third, in the slim field of seven horses, while Six Fifteen was fourth.

The time for the mile and one quarter summertime classic was 2:00 4/5.

Gene Andrews Takes Win In Publinx Golf

DALLAS, July 17 (AP)—Imperturbable Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was strongest in the srtetch today to win the ding dong battle from young Jack Zimmerman of Dayton, O., and take the National Public Links golf championship 1-up over 36 holes.

There was never more than two holes difference in the two as they struggled through 107-degree temperature in a glittering finale of the tournament.

Andrews, the 40-year-old life insurance salesman playing in his first Publinx, took the lead to stay over Zimmerman, 26-year-old bespectacled mechanical engineer, on the thirty-fourth hole when Zimmerman was short of the green and chipped 10 feet past the hole while Andrews was on the edge, laid up and sank a 6-footer for a par.

Andrews was three over par for the 36 holes over the par 71, 6,-296-yard Cedar Crest course thus for the entire tournament, during which he played 180 holes, he was even par. Which is top golf when conditions are considered — temperatures that never was below 102 degrees and reached as high as 110. Four players during the tournament fell out because of the extreme heat.

Six times during the final round the lead changed hands as Zimmerman fought silently but doggedly.

Andrews, a native of Kirkwood, suburb of St. Louis, and graduate of the University of Missouri, lived in Houston and Dallas, Tex., a year each before going to California where he became Los Angeles city golf champion.

Dodger Slump Not Fault Of New Manager Alton

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—Take it from Pee Wee Reese, veteran Brooklyn shortstop, the Dodgers' slump isn't the fault of Manager Walt Alston.

"You know who I feel sorry for? That guy over there," said Reese last night in the clubhouse, pointing to Alston. He can't believe it. We're supposed to be a super club. Everybody knocks in 500 runs and hits 100 homers. That's what he reads in the papers and then he steps in and this happens."

"It's not his fault. He's not swinging a bat. We're out there losing the game. It's us, not him. But he feels it more than any of us and what can you do in his case? Bawl somebody out? That doesn't mean anything. He tried that, and I certainly don't blame him for getting on us, but we still have to win the games out on the field, not in the clubhouse.

"I don't know why we're not winning them, but I know it's not this man's fault."

Trans-Miss Golf Tourney Into Finals

DENVER, July 17 (AP)—Jim Jackson, Walker Cup player from Kirkwood, Mo., upset defending champion Joe Conrad of San Marcos, Tex., 1-up, today in the semi-finals of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament over Cherry Hills' rain-soaked course.

Jackson goes into tomorrow's 36-hole finals against Rex Baxter, Jr., of Amarillo, Tex., the national junior champion, who conquered Marion Hiskey of Tyler, Tex., today 5 and 4.

Both matches were stalled for two hours by a cloudburst that poured more than an inch of rain on the course, already soaked by a 3-day series of showers.

Conrad blew his match when he dubbed his second shot on the fairway of the 465-yard 18th hole and pushed his third shot into a trap near the green.

Jackson was on the green in two 40 feet uphill from the pin. He rolled a putt within two inches of the cup and Conrad conceded.

Conrad made the turn 1-up by shooting the first nine holes in par. They halved the next three holes and Jackson went 1-up with an 8-foot putt for a birdie on the 160-yard 15th. Conrad missed a 4-foot putt there which would have given him a birdie. He won the 397-yard 16th with a par four. Jackson was short with his second iron shot and chipped past the green.

They halved 17 with birdies. Conrad sank a 20-foot putt and Jackson countered with a 15-footer.

Baxter fired 2 under par golf the front nine to go 4-up on Hiskey at the turn. Hiskey was 2 over par. Baxter birdied the second and the fourth holes with long putts to go 2-up. He won seven and eight with pars when Hiskey 3-putted No. 7 and needed two shots to get on the green of the 225-yard No. 8, where he 2-putted.

A heavy cloudburst caught Baxter and Hiskey after their approach shots on No. 9. After a two-hour interruption, they resumed and halved that hole with par fours.

Both were trapped on the 441-yard No. 10 and halved it with bogeys. They halved 11 in par, and Baxter went 5-up on the 205-yard 12th hole with a par 3 after Hiskey drove into a lake. They halved 13 and 14 to end the match.

In the quarter-final round this morning, Conrad walloped Don Nichols of Topeka, Kan., 5 and 4. Jackson scored an eague on No. 18 to edge Gene Zuspann, Goodland, Kan., 1-up.

Hiskey won 2-up from Howie Johnson, Houston, Tex., and Baxter fought through 19 holes to defeat Jim English of Topeka, Kan., the 1950 Trans-Mississippi champion.

Yanks Sign Up Twin Brothers Of Mickey Mantle

COMMERCE(Okla., July (AP)—Ray and Roy Mantle, whose brother Mickey Mantle plays for the New York Yankees, have been signed by the same club, it was learned today.

Tom Greenwade, Yankee scout signed the 18-year-old twins yesterday, their mother, Mrs. E. C. Mantle said.

Both boys will report to McAlester, Okla., to try out with the Rockets of the Class D Sooner State League. Their cousin, Max Mantle, earlier this year signed with the American League club and played a short time at McAlester before being released.

Ray and Roy currently are involved in a playoff with the Tri-State Miners, a semi-pro club. They are to go to McAlester after the series at Wichita, Kan.

The boys play both the outfield and infield. Last summer in their first semi-pro competition, Roy batted over .400 and Ray hit better than .300.

No mention was made of a bonus clause although they are said to have spurned 6,000 eaSch at the insistence of Mickey, who wanted them to go to college.

The twins are six feet, one inch tall. Ray weighs 182 and Roy 176. They have just completed three-sport high school athletic careers in football, baseball and basketball.

They were in New York recently for a three week visit with Mickey and while there took part in batting practice at Yankee Stadium.

Optimist, Adco Little League Teams Win Games at Windsor

The Optimist and Adco Little League major league teams journeyed to Windsor Friday night where the Optimists played and defeated Deepwater, 11-1, and Adco played and beat Windsor, 11-7.

The first game of the evening resulted in the Adco team making hits count and staying ahead of Windsor. Speiler had three hits in four times at the plate to lead in hitting. Bennett pitched the first five innings and Schenewark finished the contest. Beymer was behind the plate.

In the second game, between Optimist and Deepwater, the Optimists were in complete command, winning 11-1 with Wertz going all the way to take the victory. Kellner was behind the plate for Optimist. Kellner also had the only triple of the evening which he clouted with the bases full to account for three of the 11 runs. Wallace had a double for the winners.

There was a fine crowd on hand at the Windsor baseball diamond to view the Little Leaguers. The Little League program of baseball is just starting this year in Deepwater and Windsor and the Sedalia teams made the trip for the game for the purpose of encouraging other teams to follow the pattern of Little League baseball which has been very successful in Sedalia.

Tribe Maintains Slim Lead In AL; Giants Dominate NL

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Bob Feller's two-hit shutout of Philadelphia, 6-0, kept the Cleveland Indians a half game ahead of the surging New York Yankees in the American League race today as the Yanks won their 12th straight game, a new high for the season in the majors.

In the National League both the first place New York Giants and the runnerup Brooklyn Dodgers, were extended 11 innings before they won, the Giants thus retaining their 6½ game lead. The Giants after blowing a nine-run lead, finally beat St. Louis 10-9 and the Brooks knocked off Milwaukee 2-1 to break a three-game losing streak.

Feller, the onetime Iowa Schoolboy sensation who now is 35, held the feeble A's to two singles, both by Don Bollweg. He faced only 29 batters, fanning six and walking none. It was his first shutout since July 10, 1953 when he blanked Chicago. Feller's record now is 7-1 with six straight victories since May 31.

The big blow for the Indians was Jim Hegan's fourth inning home run.

Eddie Lopat and Marlin Stuart, the Yankee pitchers, were nicked for 14 hits by Baltimore, including 13 singles, but New York managed three big innings to bowl over the last place Orioles 9-3.

Irv Noren continued his sensational hitting pace with two singles in three official trips, boosting his league-leading average four points to .364.

Bob Porterfield of Washington dropped Chicago five games off the fast American League pace when he scattered eight hits for his 10th victory, 3-1. The Senators scored twice in the first to break Billy Pierce's string of 18 scoreless innings.

The Boston Red Sox won their sixth game in the last seven, 7-6, over Detroit as Ellis Kinder survived a four-run Tiger ninth to save a victory for Tom Brewer.

With the help of two errors by Cardinal third baseman Ray Jablonski, the Giants scored seven runs in the third inning after scoring twice in the first. But the Cards finally caught up with Giant starter Johnny Antonelli for five runs in the sixth.

A ninth inning, two run homer by Gran Hamner finally gave the Philadelphia Phils a victory under their new manager Terry Moore as they defeated Cincinnati 5-3. The Phils had lost four straight since Moore took over Thursday.

The Chicago Cubs, riding along on Hank Sauer's 26th and 277th home runs, beat Pittsburgh 11-3 in the opener of a doubleheader, but lost the nightcap 6-2 as the Bucs halted a four-game losing streak.

Jaycee Minors Get First Win Of This Season

Jaycees, scoring their first win of the season, and getting it decisively, stole the show in the Little League Minors for the games played Friday night and Saturday morning.

The heretofore losing Jaycees trampled the Democrat-Capital 14 to 1 with the aid of a couple of new boys who made quite a difference. They played Friday night at the same time Rotary defeated the Elks 12 to 11.

Melvin Briscoe, catcher, and W. C. Cole, pitcher, are the new Jaycees who put on a great show. Briscoe slapped out a home run to become the only minor league player to put a ball over the center field fence this year.

In the Rotary-Elks contest, the Elks led until the last of the final inning. They had a 10 to 3 advantage when they changed hurlers and the Rotary team went to bat for the last time. By the time they got the Rotary team out the squad had scored 9 runs and had taken the victory 12-10.

Saturday morning, in two well-played games, Adco downed Kiwanis 5 to 3 and Optimists won from Rotary 9 to 8.

Howard Bullard, hurler for Adco, had the situation well under control in taking the well deserved victory.

Optimists had to come from behind in their contest and it was George Goetz, coming in as a relief hurler for them, who spelled the difference.

Feller was near perfect as he recorded his seventh victory against only one defeat. He faced only 29 batters, fanned six, walked none. His control was so perfect he tossed only 21 balls the entire game. It was Feller's first shutout since July 10, 1953.

The Indians by winning stayed one-half game ahead of the New York Yankees who won their 12th straight victory today, routing Baltimore 9-3.

Nurmi Says Landy Will Crack Marks

HELSINKI, July 17 (AP) — Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great distance runner of the twenties who predicted Roger Bannister would be the first to crack the four minute mile barrier, says Australia's John Landy "is going to show the world even more."

Nurmi, called by Finnish sports writers "the Greta Garbo of sports" because he is reluctant to talk, always has been a great admirer of Anglo-Saxon runners.

He wasn't surprised May 6 when Bannister, Oxford medical student, ran the mile in 3:59.4.

"That is what I have predicted for years," was his terse comment. A few weeks later Landy came to Finland and Nurmi saw all of his races, including the one at Turku June 21 when the Aussie lowered Bannister's mark to 3:58. At the same time Landy bettered the world 1500 meters record with a time of 3:41.8.

"The milers of today are wonderful, and Landy is going to show the world even more," said Nurmi, who has a sound respect for modern training methods.

Nurmi, now 57, reached the peak of his career in 1924 when he won four gold medals in the Olympic games at Paris. He never did much training, though, being a natural athlete.

Although Nurmi now is a prosperous real estate operator and businessman who tackles his problems with the same stubbornness that enabled him to hold 24 official world records, he still loves the life of an athlete. He leaves his villa at Kallvik, near Helsinki, daily to get exercise in the woods.

The man who held world records from one mile to the marathon distance follows closely results of track and field meets all over the world.

Nurmi believes Chris Chataway and Gordon Pirie of Britain will break the 5,000 meters record.

"Both are gifted runners — just wait and see."

What the stocky, broad-faced Finn might have done himself to better world records with stiffer opposition will never be known. Nurmi claims he would have done better if he had serious competition.

His mile record of 4:10.4 was set in 1923 and stood until France's Jules LaDoumegue lowered it to 4:09.2 in 1931.

The Nurmi name returned to sports again this summer with the debut of his 21-year-old son, Mattie Nurmi, in the Finnish national track and field championships. But he did nothing sensationally as he raced one lap of the 6,000 meter relay, finishing very tired in 4:11.0.

Old Nurmi won't admit it, but he has high hopes for his son.

"It is entirely his own business," Nurmi said when asked. "I never tried to impose any rules on him for his track and field work."

Four Newcomers On Curtis Cup Team for USA

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Four brilliant newcomers to international golf have been invited to join four experienced members of former teams in an effort to bring the Curtis Cup back from Britain this year.

The women's international series for the Curtis Cup will be played at the Merion Golf Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 2 and 3. Britain now holds the trophy, having won by a 5-4 margin at Muirfield, Scotland, 8, 1952. In six prior Curtis Cup matches, the United States had won five times and tied once.

The four newcomers are 28-year-old Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., 1953 United States women's amateur champion; Barbara Romack, 21, of Sacramento, Calif., the 1953 Candian women's champion; Patrician Ann Lesser, 20, of Seattle, a quarter-finalist in last year's women's amateur and leading amateur in the 1953 women's open, and Joyce Ziske, 20, of Milwaukee, who beat Miss Faulk to win the 1954 North and South women's tittle.

The four veterans are Claire Doran of Cleveland, Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Polly Riley of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Grace DeMoss Smith of Coral Gables, Fla. All four were members of the 1952 and 1950 teams.

Settle Hannegan Estate

ST. LOUIS, July 17—(AP)—Final settlement of the estate of former Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan with a gross value of $1,083,939 was approved here today by Probate Judge Thomas J. Boland.

With $473,510 in lawful debts against the estate there was a balance of $610,429 left for distribution to Hannegan's widow, two sons and two daughters.

The settlement reported that $391,079, after taxes, already had been turned over to Mrs. Hannegan, leaving final payment of $9,465 due her. A trust fund of $19,315 was left to each of the children.

Hannegan, who formerly was part owner of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team, died Oct. 6, 1949, following a heart attack.

Too Easy to Blame A Manager Says Cards' Eddie Stanky

ST. LOUIS, July 17 (AP)—St. Louis Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky got strong backing today from his boss who said it's too easy to blame a manager when something goes wrong.

It was the first statement by August A. Busch, president of the Redbirds, since criticism of Stanky's handling of the sixth place ball club began.

Busch, noting the team is well below most pre-season predictions, said:

"I know that there are many loyal Cardinal fans all over the country who are impatient and unhappy with the present standing.

"This includes Eddie Stanky and every member of the Cardinal ball club. But I think it is all together too simple and too easy to blame the manager every time something goes wrong or doesn't work out exactly as it should.

"Our own feeling about Stanky is best expressed in the three-year contract we have signed with him. It has always been my policy in business to give a man every chance to make good. It most certainly is our policy in the case of Eddie Stanky and the Cardinals."

Stanky received criticism from some sports writers earlier in the season on his handling of pitchers. Recently some fans have booed every appearance of the former New York Giant infielder.

Reports of dissention on the team itself were denied by Stanky and many players, including Stan Musial.

Busch said the Redbirds' top management was trying to give Stanky "the best tools we can to work with" through a complete organization rebuilding.

He called attention to the meeting here this week of Cardinal minor league executives as a step in that direction.

Busch called Stanky a tenacious little scrapper "and if we all give him and the team support and a chance to make good, I don't think they will fail us."

Pros Begin Scramble for Crown In PGA Golf Tourney Wed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17 (AP) — The mechanical men of golf — from the tournament idols to public links instructors—meet in face-to-face combat this week for the cherished PGA championship in which percentages scoff at favorites' labels.

The game's blue ribbon professionals scramble for more than $20,000 starting Wednesday, oddly at a public links course where Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff have known some of their gaudiest days.

Technicians at the 6,557-yard Keller layout have labored for weeks to add some bone and muscle to a course which has been one of the tournament weaklings for years.

The most charitable say it has been toughened by three or four strokes, but the skeptics insist a long, straight game will crumble the par 71 without any miracle shooting.

A scheduled 135 entries start swinging Wednesday in the first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds. The low 63 and defending champion champion Walter Burkemo begin the match play oddyssey Friday with two 18-hole rounds.

Thereafter its one 36-hole trip a day for the survivors until the finale next Tuesday.

To the winner, aside from the intangible lift of taking the toughest tournament in the country, goes $5,000. And if its the chronically ailing Snead, the title will be his fourth, second only to Walter Hagen's five championships.

Keller has been an annual windfall for Snead. He is the all-time leading money winner of the St. Paul open. He was once a winner, another time a runnerup and again a winner of the Western Open which supplanted the St. Paul event in 1949.

Yet his consistency here is matched by Middlecoff's par-shredding brilliance. The golfing dentist holds the 72-hole record of 266, and for his last two appearances at Keller, Middlecoff is an awesome 41 under par.

Ben Hogan no longer risks the fatigue of this elimination marathon, but almost all of the other ranking pros will be in the field. The violent Tommy Bolt, Bob Toski, Freddie Haas Jr., Jackie Burke, National Open Champion Ed Furgol, Burkemo and Jimmy Demaret all are regarded as strong contenders.

Barber, Kroll In Tie In Manakiki Golf Tourney

CLEVELAND, July 17 (AP) — Little Jerry Barber of LaCanada, Calif. and Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., banged into a tie at 208, eight under par, today for the third round lead in the 72-hole, $25,000 Manakiki Open golf tournament.

That set the stage for a rousing final round tomorrow. Elven players—all stars on the tour — are within a three-stoke range, and a half-dozen others are only four shots off the pace.

Barber posted his third straight sub-par round, a 70, while Kroll, who tied Cary Middlecoff here a year ago and then lost the playoff, shot a sizzling 68 to tie Bob Toski, Dick Shoemaker, Marty Furgol and Julius Boros for the day's best round.

Deadlocked at 209, a stroke back were Furgol, Boros and Freddie Haas. The second round leader, Haas zoomed to a huge seven on the par four second hole and had to chip in for a birdie on the 18th to finish with a 73.

Kroll, if he can finish first or second, will take the money-won lead from Cary Middlecoff who has picked up $13,883 this year.

Robert de Vincenzo of the Rgentine wheeled in with a 70 for a 210 total which deadlocked him with George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., whose 72 matched par.

Next, at 211 and still in position to make it tough on the leaders, were Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, Ellsworth Vines, of Los Angeles, Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, and Tommy Bolt, of Houston, Tex.

American Are Leaving Hanoi As Reds Move

HANOI, Indochina, July 17—(AP)—The last American woman resident left Hanoi today.

And an American student of Chinese history, who had taught two years in China when the Communists took over that country, plans to leave tomorrow.

Only 11 American correspondents and a scant score of other Americans remain in this threatened northern Indochina city.

The American consulate in Hanoi refuses to say either the exact number or the names of Americans still here, contending that such information is "classified secret." Why it is considered secret wase not stated.

As far as could be determined from unofficial sources, however, the other noncorrespondent, nongovernment Americans include four to six missionaries in the Hanoi area.

Miss Helen Callbeck, with ties in Kansas, California and Chicago boarded a transport plane today for Cambodia after eight months here teaching private English classes and dooming World Federal Government.

David Gidman of Norfolk, Conn., plans to leave tomorrow for Saigon to continue his research there under a Ford Foundation fellowship.

Up until the last few days there had been at least two American women engaged in nurses' training or refugee work in the Hanoi area under American government agencies but it was believed they had since been transferred to Saigon. The consulate refused to give their names or to say whether they had been flown to the southern capital.

Miss Callbeck will visit in Cambodia, Thailand and Malaya before going to Tokyo for the second Asian conference for World Federal Government convening there later this summer. Prior to coming overseas she was a social worker with the International Institute of Alameda County at Oakland, Calif. Her mother, Mrs. Martha Bush Callbeck, is employed at the State School of Psychiatric Nursing in Chicago. Miss Callbeck spent much of her youth on the Topeka, Kan. farm of her grandfather, William Bush, a former secretary of state for Kansas. She said she had planned to leave Hanoi to attend the Tokyo world government session and then return to north Viet Nam.

"Now," she said in a telephone interview, "that does not look very lively. What is happening here would never happen if we had world federation government. Indochina is one of the great failures of the Western world. These poor people are being delivered to communism by that failure."

Gidman has been researching the movement of Chinese civilization into Indochina. He will continue his studies at Saigon.

Gidman was doing a similar work in Szechwan province of China when the Communists took over that area in 1948. It took him until 1950 to get out.

American correspondents still in Hanoi include newsman Forrest Edwards and photographer Fred Waters of the Associated Press; Henry Lieberman of the New York Times; Dwight Martin, Don Wilson and Howard Sochurek of Time-Life; Walt Durrell of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer News of the Day; Tom McAllen of Fox Movietone; Wade Bingham of CBS television; Eugene Jones of NBC television, and Robert Hecox of NBC radio television.

Flanders Says He Is Gaining On Mac Issue

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Flanders said today he is picking up support from both Republicans and Democrats on his demand for a "clear-cut vote on McCarthyism" and predicted a Senate majority would vote to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

Indications were lacking, however, that Flanders (R-Vt.) would get any help at all from Republican leaders. Leaders on the other side of the aisle were keeping their own counsel.

Sen. Knowland indicated he would move either to table the Flanders proposal — a motion which would block debate—or dispose of it without lengthy talk.

Knowland said any debate on the proposal "probably would tie up the Senate for four or five days and block the administration's legislative program."

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said the chances of an adjournment of Congress by July 31 are good but added:

"Of course, the one thing that could really throw us off schedule would be this Flanders resolution. If that gets loose, we may be talking around here for a long time."

Flanders, McCarthy's bitterest Senate critic, said his motion declaring McCarthy "condemned" for his conduct as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee was attracting support of senators who had refused to back a previous Flanders effort. That was aimed at unseating McCarthy from all his committee chairmanships.

Flanders named only Senator Cooper (R-Ky) as among a number of senators who, he said, have offered to speak in the Senate in behalf of the censure motion to be offered Tuesday.

Mo. Industry Progress

JEFFERSON CITY, July 17 (AP)—Missouri industry completed an $82,906, 473 muscle-building program during the first six months of 1954 in the face of frequent reports that business and employment are lagging.

The State Division of Resources and Development reported today that much was spent for new or expanded industrial plants during the period. The expenditures were for 34 new plants, 45 expansions and 81 special industries like defense, transportation or utilities.

They are expected to produce 2,927 new jobs and hike annual payrolls by about $9,974,795. St. Louis received 17.5 per cent of the industrial growth, Kansas City 22.5 per cent and the rest, 60 per cent went to outstate Missouri.

Machine Gun Kelly Former Gangster Dies In Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 17 (AP)—George (Machine Gun) Kelly, kidnapper, liquor runner and expert with the weapon that became his name, died early today of heart disease.

It was the 59th anniversary of his birth. He hadn't touched the gun with which he could write his name in bullets since September 1933, when he was arrested for kidnapping Oklahoma oilman Charles F. Urschel.

Kelly was serving a life sentence in the federal penitentiary here for the Urschel kidnapping. The wealthy oilman was snatched from his Oklahoma City home on June 22, 1933. Urschel was released July 31 after $200,000 ransom was paid on a busy Kansas City street.

Kelly was one of the most notorious of the hoodlums who terrorized the midwest 20 years ago. It was the alertness of Urschel that brought his downfall.

After kidnaping Urschel at the point of a machine gun and pistol, Kelly and Albert L. Bates blindfolded the oil man and took him on a long drive to a hideout near Paradise, Texas.

Although he could not see, Ruschel made careful note that the 14-hour ride was made over bumpy roads. While in the hide-out shack he heard an airplane flying over twice daily.

One day the plane missed it's schedule. That fact helped FBI agents to find the shack.

There they arrested Harvey Bailey, an ex-convict, and found he was carrying some of the ransom.

In the subsequent roundup, the officers arrested Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, Bates, and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon, father-in-law and mother-in-law of Kelly. The Kellys, Bates and Bailey were given life sentences, the Shannons lesser terms. Bates died in Alcatraz federal penitentiary. Shannon has been released from custody. The others are still in prison. Their convictions were the first under the Lindberg law.

Kelly and his wife were the last of the gang to be captured, evading the police until Sept. 26, 1933. To help them divert suspicion from themselves, they "borrowed" a 12-year-old girl from an itinerant laborer and took her with them in their travels to and around Memphis, Tenn.

But the FBI reported it was messages from the girl that eventually led them to the Kelly's Memphis hideout.

The child received part of the reward paid for their capture.

Federal agents burst in on Kelly and found him armed and waiting for them. But the boastful bad man lost his nerve as they confronted him and he dropped his gun without firing a shot. Kelly, a dapper fellow, had gone to great lengths to hide his identity-dyeing his hair a lemon yellow.

While cowering in a corner at the point of his captors' guns, the trembling desperado cried "don't shoot, G-men, don't shoot."

So Kelly was credited with coining the "G-man" label for federal agents.

"He was cowering in a corner, with no gun handy," an FBI man said at the time of Kelly's arrest.

"His face twitched and got white. He was whimpering. He lost his bravado. He reached up his hand toward the ceiling, trembled and said, 'Don't shoot, G-men, don't shoot."

That was the first time anyone had ever heard the 'G-men" expression. Kelly told reporters who asked about it what he meant, "government men."

"By the time he was convicted, and sentenced the abbreviation had spread through the underworld," the FBI spokesman said.

Ordelheide, who will succeed Harry F. Thompson, is director of the Bureau of Public Health Engineering of the Missouri State Division of Health, a post he has held since 1948.

Will Solicit Funds to Help Epileptics

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP) — "Sometimes," says Dr. Joseph W. Stein, "you'd think we were still boring holes in skulls to let out the evil spirits.

"The way people in this country treat epileptics is like something out of ancient history."

And that's why, he says, he, three other doctors and four laymen have formed a group called the Federal Assn. for Epilepsey to educate the public and to raise funds for hospital-schools. No other group in the country dealing with epilepsy, he says, is attempting to create these hospital-schools.

"It has been done for the cerebral palsied, and there are only 550,000 of them," he says, "but there are about 1½ million epileptics in this country—one out of every 200 people—and the great tragedy is that about 600,000 of them are youngsters."

Stein says his group has been looking at a number of sites and is trying to establish a hospital-school "of considerable proportion" in or around Washington which it hopes will be the first of many across the nation.

Stein, a specialist in another field, became interested in epilepsy about 10 years ago. He was appalled by the fact that the laws of most states provide for the treatmen of epilepsy on he same level as the mentally deficient or the insane.

He was equally appalled by the factt hat 18 states forbid epileptics to marry, though there is no medical evidence that epilepsy is hereditary. Most states, he found, forbid epileptic children to attend public schools. Others will not issue an epileptic a driver's license.

Just what causes epilepsy still is unknown, but apparently a seizure is brought on by a sort of electrical storm within the brain.

With that storm comet he seizures classified as petit mal (little illness) and gran mal (big illness).

Petit mal is characterized by sudden losses of thought continuity and bizarre hand or head movements. In such cases the attacks are momentary.

Grand mal is often accompanied by a forewarning which seems to thevictim like an aura of light or a clap of thunder. Sometimes there is no forewarning. This type often results in unconsciousness.

It is known that brain injuries, either at birth or in later life, can produce epilepsy. This form, known as traumatic epilepsy, sometimes can be cured by surgery.

"In any case," says Stein, "we know that the seizures can be controlled completely in about 50 per cent of the cases with anticonvulsive drugs and materially reduced in 30 per cent.

"It is another tragely that only about 20 per cent of the epilpetics in this country are receiving adequae medical care. Too often they try to fight it with patent medicines.

"Since we make fourth-class citizens of epileptics, they try to hide their affliction. Many employers won't hire an epileptic, an extraordinary waste of manpower and talent."

To control seizures, a long treatment is necessary.

"It takes as long as a year or 18 months," Stein says, "and the cost is more than equal to the income of the average family. If we could establish hospital-schools the problem of costs might be reduced."

MFA Purchases Site for Future Headquarters

COLUMBIA (AP) — The Missouri Farmers Association Mutual Insurance Co. today completed purchase of a 56-acre tract to the west of Columbia upon which it will build a home for itself, and which probably will become the site of a general MFA headquarters.

The tract cost about $55,000, J. M. Silvey, president of the company, said. Building plans are incomplete, and will depend partly upon the speed with which the MFA is able to dispose of a downtown office building in which the insurance company and other MFA offices are now located, but which has become inadequate.

Silvey said that the insurance company alone expects to employ 1,200 persons in Columbia by 1963. Other MFA units eventually will have offices here, even though their production facilities are elsewhere.

The purchased completed today makes "columbia now definitely our home office," Silvey said.

Previously the insurance company had debated the possibility of moving elsewhere because of difficulties it was having in obtaining office space.

The company tried for months to purchase property adjacent to its present downtown location. It found the University of Missouri unwilling to sell its property nearby, and others, the company said, priced their sites out of the market. The company for a short time held ownership of the Tiger Hotel, and debated the possibility of turning the hostelry into an office building, but discarded that idea and sold the hotel. It continued the search until the site purchased today was put under option.

Heat and Grasshoppers Bring Serious Problems to Lincoln

By Mrs. Herbert Hansen

LINCOLN—The drought still holds in this section with temperatures soaring far above the 100° mark daily. So far, our city has an ample supply of water, however, it is reported some farm families are again finding it necessary to haul water for livestock and home use.

The grasshoppers are also adding their bit to the already harrowing effects of extreme heat and dry weather conditions this summer having devoured large areas of fields growing corn and other crops, vegetable gardens, and in fact, they seem to eat every growing plant, including the tough, fiberous, old-fashioned iris, as well as fresh fruit.

One farmer, Johnnie Harms, reports they are eating his peaches, and points to the seed-covered trees for proof of the statement. He reports that they even hollowed out the onions which hadn't been harvested in his garden.

Animals, as well as persons, are suffering from the sun's hot rays. Several hogs have died, and a number of persons have reported loss of fowls, ranging in number from four, to the hundreds.

Irving Boring, Lincoln, lost over 200 broilers which were ready for market Monday night.

How to dispose of such a large number of dead birds presented quite a problem, until a farmer plowing in a nearby field the next morning suggested dropping them in the furrows, before his tractor. This proved satisfactory.

The fire department was called early Wednesday morning to a grass fire, on the vacant lot near the local Methodist Church. The fire was quickly brought under control.

Excitement was caused the same day, when a safety valve on the 500 gallon gas tank at the Woodrow Rife residence blew out. The Rifes had just added 400 gallons of gas to the tank, of which about 200 gallons was lost.

New Industries Come

JEFFERSON CITY—The first six months of 1954 brought a total of 160 new and expanded plants that invested $82,806,473 in Missouri, according to James D. Idol, industrial director of the Division of Resources and Development. These developments produced jobs for 2,927 new workers with total annual wages of $9,974,795.

Will Hold Review For General At Grandview

KANSAS CITY July 17 (AP)—A farewell review will be held at Grandview Air Force Base July 22 for Major Gen. Delmar T. Spivey who leaves his Central Air Defense Force command the next day.

Spivey will take command of the Air War College at the Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., after 18 months as commander of the CDAF.

The review also will honor Col. Maurice R. Smith, Kansas City insurance mand and aviation pioneer who is retiring July 31 after 36 years of military service.

A feature of the review will be the first playing of "The General Spivey March" by the 504th Air Force band under the direction of Warrant Officer Eldridge G. Bunton. The march was composed by Bunton, Lt. Col. Harry Jenkins and Staff Sgt. Harold K. Smith. The original copy will be presented to Spivey.

Linn County Probate Judge Dies Friday

His Chickens Growing Well In Old Cave

RAMSEY, Ind., July 17 (AP) — Robert Martin is raising 6,000 chickens 200 feet underground in an abandoned limestone cave.

Martin is the 46-year-old vice president and manager of a hatchery that's doing a million-dollar business but has a problem: how to get fertile eggs for hatching in summer when the hens production and quality fall off because of the heat.

A possible solution presented itself when the Louisville Cement Co. abandoned its huge diggings at nearby Milltown last November. Since 1885, the firm had dynamited and cut around and under a big limestone hill.

Underneath, it left some 25 acres of open space spotted with supporting columns 40 feet thick.

Most important, inside it's a cool 56 degrees winter and summer, there is a well of good water and the openings are large enough to admit trucks.

Martin leased 15 acres of the cave, installed fans to circulate the air, laid 1,900 feet of water pipe from the well to two "rooms" screened off in dead-end passages, erected a huge feed bin and built up a floor with corn shucks and cobs. Chicks were put into the cave late in March.

The experiment's climax comes this month, when the hens begin to reach egg-laying age. The number of eggs produced and how well they hatch when brought to Martin's hatchery will determine if the pit is a gold mine or just a hole in the ground.

With one more week remaining of the contest period, more than 100 names have been submitted by patrons of the Children's Room at the Public Library for the parakeet recently placed there. The youngsters have taken a great deal of interest in the library's pet, and the contest by which a boy or girl may win a bird for himself by entering the winning name.

The children may submit their entries when withdrawing books at the library, by writing the suggested name and the child's library card number on a slip of paper. The contest closes next Saturday and the winner will be announced August 1.

Sedalia residents who do not have definite plans for their summer vacations can save a lot of time and speculation if they check the Public Library's books on where to go and what to do when they get there.

The most popular of the current vacation books are guides to the best spots and their eating facilities.

Books are available at the library on most of the states and many of the larger cities in the country. Information is also plentiful on the country's national parks, lakes and other scenic places.

One of the most complete guide books available is the "Guide to America"; in addition the library recommends "American Folkways," the "Rivers of America" series and the "Look at America" series. Travel magazines covering the country are also available. They include Holiday, Sunset, National Geographic, Travel, Arizona Highways and others.

Sedalians who wish to read library materials about the places they plan to visit should ask the help of librarians on duty in order to be sure that they find all that the library offers.

Indications Are That Women Are Starting to Smoke Pipes

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP) — Of course, it may take a little time before men get the hang of loving a girl who smokes a pipe.

But there's every indication that the gentle sex in some numbers is learning to puff, ream, tamp and dottle-knock. For the benefit of you fellows who have been smoking pipes for years and didn't know what dottle is, it's that black stuff that collects in the bottom of the bowl.

The fire responsible for all this smoke was the recent survey reported to the American Cancer Society, which heard that cigarettes may be a good deal more hazardous to health than pipes or cigars.

One notable, if not whole-hearted convert, is Mrs. E. Cuyler Hammond. Her husband, a Yale professor, is director of statistical research for the cancer society, and one of the men who made the report. Mrs. Hammond is taking up pipe smoking, but says she still puffs a few cigarettes a day — a big reduction from her three-packs-a-day consumption before the survey.

From La Jolla, Calif., where the Hammonds are vacationing, to New York the pipe companies are pitching for the feminine trade. One retailer here offers adorable "purse-sized pipes for the lady smoker" and reports selling more than 100 a day. He stocks them in red, blue, maize and green, in six shapes. He also reports big business in "milady" tobacco, a mild blend put up in tin humidors wrapped in baby pink.

One of the city's biggest department stores is advertising ladies' pipes and mild, mild, mild tobacco.

One of the nation's largest manufacturers — stuck with a load of girl-sized briars after the wartime cigarette shortage — says he's getting inquiries and hurry-up orders for them again. Optimistically, he thinks the fad will stick this time. He recalled mournfully that women went right back to cigarettes the last time, as soon as they were plentiful.

But a casual survey among feminine leaders who often jump a fashion gun indicates some hesitancy in accepting this new trend. Here is some sample comment:

"The more that women copy men's habits, the less attractive they become to men."—Ann Miller, actress.

"Pipes and pretties. Oh, no!"—Donna Reed, actress.

"When they start making pipes out of chlorophyll I may have some interest." — Rosemary Clooney, singer.

There is, however, a strong, if small, pro-pipe contingent among the ladies. Outstanding is Mrs. Hugo Gnam of Jefferson Valley, N. Y., wife of an interior decorator, mother of two, who is the international champion woman pipe smoker, duly crowned last summer after she won a contest with 118 other lady puffers by keeping her briar bowl alight for 1 hour 29 minutes, 6 seconds.

Mrs. Gnam, who must defend her title next month when the International Assn. of pipe-smokers' clubs holds it annual convention in New York, thinks it's high time women generally discovered the joys of the carbonized bowl. She's been smoking a pipe for six years and is on the verge of persuading Hugo, her nonsmoking husband, to give tobacco a whirl.

"It's very relaxing," she explained. "The idea is to puff slowly — it's a knack. And it beats anything else to do while watching television."

Annette Gnam does most of her pipe smoking at home — after dinner. Occasionally, however, she lights up in the smoking car of a commuter train, "and the men practically wear out the aisle walking up and down looking at me."

She invariably carries in her handbag one of her collection of 100 or so pipes, together with a neat oilskin pouch, a tamper, reamer, scraper and a few pipe cleaners, contained in an oversize plastic change purse which fits into her hand bag.

Mrs. Gnam has nothing but scorn for delicate, miniature pipes. She prefers a big, sturdy briar.

"Those little bowls," she sniffed scornfully. "By the time you're ready to sit back and enjoy the pipe, you have to refill them with tobacco."

Although Mrs. Gnam maintains that a woman can smoke a pipe as gracefully as she can do anything else, other broadminded women aren't so sure. Take, for example, Ilka Chase, actress and writer.

"Personally, I'm a cigar smoker," she explained. "I tried pipes, because it seemed to me that men always looked so contented with them, polishing them against their noses and fussing with them. But I discovered that it's a life's work just keeping them lighted. It's murderously hard. So I turned to cigars."

Miss Chase enjoys — particularly after dinner—a mild, not too small, perfecto. She confessed, however, that those who don't know her well stare rudely.

The general male reaction was convincingly summed up by Garry Moore, a television performer who wears Bermuda shorts on New York streets:

"I've never seen a girl smoke a pipe and I don't think I want to. It reminds me of a piece of etiquette advice I once received: 'Never slap a lady while she's chewing tobacco.' Generally, I think pipe smoking is fine for girls who look like Jack Webb."

Swimming Pool Is the City's 'Cooler' During Record Heat Wave

—o— —o— —o— —o— —o— —o—

Sedalia Residents Devise Every Form of Cooling This Week, But Swimming Pool Proved Most Effective and Most Popular; Some Even Remembered the Birds, Dogs and Cats Amid Their Efforts to Hold Down Their Own Temperatures

Patty Sue Clark was ready to leave after a cooling swim when she was pictured in the entrance hallway. She's a kindergarten student.

Sunbathing is fun after you've cooled off decide Mrs. Alice Fisjman and Mrs. Jerry Riffert, 216 West Sixth, and Mrs. Harold Shedd, 819 West Third.

Rusty Phillips, 1710 West 11th, and Kirk Johnson, 1405 West 11th, take it easy after a refreshing dip in the pool, their innertubes as beds.

There are always games and stunts to keep the swimmers amused and here a session of upsets is about to get underway while others play around.

One Boy Declares He Got 'Goose Pimples' While Swimming

When the heat gets to the point of breaking the record, everybody starts thinking up ways to keep cool and the swimming pool is an ideal spot. Just what kept the water from boiling in the hot sun is a mystery but on one of the hottest days a swimmer declared he went to the pool at Liberty Park and got goose pimples.

Of course people who had to work, or try to work, didn't have that advantage and the breeze from fans didn't seem to help much. People selling air conditioning, electric fans, window fans, ice and soft drinks were really busy.

Probably all sorts of inventions and ideas came out of the heat wave. One boy went out to the junk yard, bought a fan out of an old car, brought it back home an hooked it up to the washing machine motor. It made a wonderful window fan, said his mother, "I don't see why he didn't think of it sooner."

People took off as many clothes as possible and some women kept smocks or easy to get into dresses handy in case someone came to the door. One man rolled up his trousers and put a wet handkerchief around his neck. That helped and he didn't care how he looked. A wet handkerchief did help and one girl found putting pieces of ice down the neck of her dress cooled her off a bit, even if it did make her squirm now and then.

Many people remembered that birds and dogs and cats needed cold water, too, and saw to it that bird baths were kept filled and pans of water were put out for the dogs and cats whose owners seemed to forget that they need plenty of water in hot weather.

One woman put a large dishpan of water out at the side of her house for stray dogs or cats, but found that the birds were taking advantage of it as well. They were smart enough not to try to take a bath in water that deep, she noted, and then seh saw that the water was very dirty.

She dumped out the dirty water thinking that the birds must have tried bathing in it after all. Then she saw what had happened. A small black pup found the water very refreshing and whenever he started to take a drink he would put his two front feet in the water. That was really grand, thought the little dog. He would drink and then just stand in the water until he cooled off and away he'd go. After a while he would come back, his tongue hanging out, get himself a drink and then put his two front feet in the water again.

One woman likes her little carrier boy and she thought by the time he got about to her house he would probably be thirsty. Every day she made lemonade or some kind of cold drink and when it was about time for him she would start watching for him. Then she would tell him to wait a minute, would go in and get the lemonade and bring it out to where he waited on his bicycle.

Other women had the same idea about men who were delivering or working around their homes.

Another courtesy that many people offered was rides to or from work on these hot days. "It's too hot to walk," someone in a car would say, "Come on and ride." Usually they would comment, "No, I'll take you all the way, it's just too hot to walk," when their thankful passenger would suggest they would get out at a certain corner.

People moved out in the yards at night or tried to devise some manner in which they might keep cool in the house. One man sprinkled his bed with water to cool it off before he got into it. Some used wet towels and one woman put two wet wash cloths in the refrigerator and would put one on her pillow and one on her face when she went to bed.

Well, there is sure one thing certain. That favorite of all subjects, the weather, gained so tremendously in popularity during the extreme heat wave that nobody found time to gossip. They were just too hot to talk about anything else except the weather.

Popular Headmaster of Boys' School Unlikely Murder Victim

Editor's Note—The campus of an Eastern boys' preparatory school was a strange setting for murder. And the popular headmaster, a man known for his justice and sympathetic attitude, was an unlikely victim. Here's the story of a cold-blooded killing, unsolved to this day, that shocked an entire nation.

By JOHN B. KNOX

MOUNT HERMON, Mass., July 17 (AP)—A drizzle-laden September wind tossed the trees on the campus of Mount Hermon School 20 years ago, setting the scene for murder.

Some of the 500 boy students already were reporting for the fall term of the prep school founded in 1881 by evangelist Dwight L. Moody.

On the night of Sept. 14, 1934, about 100 people, including teachers, school employes and their families were in the school buildings amid their campus setting of lake and lawns, gardens and orchards.

Darkness came early with the overcast sky. Only occasional lights dotted the grounds. And the winding walks and roads vanished after a few feet in pools of shadow.

A bright rectangle in the blackness was the study window of the headmaster, the Rev. Elliott Speer. In his few years at Mount Hermon, the 36-year-old Princeton-graduated Presbyterian had leavened the stern religious atmosphere of the school with liberalism. As head of the allied Northfield School for Girls he had also encouraged student participation in social events which lowered traditional barriers between the two schools.

Speer had returned one week before that fateful Sept. 14, tanned and fit after summering in the Canadian outdoors.

Beside his hand in the study where he had been writing, he had placed a work on liberal Christianity. But on a bookshelf in the nearby school library was another book—a much-thumbed English detective novel: "The Public School Murder." Detectives were to study both books later.

What caused the young minister-educator to rise and walk to his study window, apparently to peer out into the windy darkness, has never been learned. Some thought it was a pebble thrown against the pane.

His wife, putting their three young daughters to bed, heard a shotgun blast, the shatter of glass. Running to the study, she found her husband slumped on the floor. Blood streamed from his right arm.

Outside there was the sound of running feet. Somewhere an automobile started up, and then the sound faded in the night.

Mrs. Speer's father, Dr. Henry H. Welles—also a distinguished Presbyterian Churchman — awoke from a nap and hurried after his daughter into the study.

To their horrified and involuntary "What happened?" Dr. Speer murmured, "I don't know. Something hit me. Put a tourniquet on my arm."

Apparently aware of chest wounds the others had not yet noticed, he whispered his last words: "Call Dr. Castline."

Dr. Welles applied the tourniquet.

Twenty minutes later, Dr. Speer was dead.

Calling the police was a belated afterthought in this household, unaccustomed to violence. Not until 25 minutes after the shotgun blast did Dr. Speer's close friend, David Birdsall, purchasing agent for the school, telephone authorities.

State police moved in. They were intensely interested in "The Public School Murder," especially in its account of the fictional crime:

"There at the window, then wide open, the headmaster sat writing. The light shone upon him; he was a conspicuous target. Here, possibly just where I am standing, the murderer took aim. No, probably he was much closer to the window.

"He crept stealthily along the edge of the grass until he was within a yard or two. One shot was enough at such close range."

In the novel, the slayer threw his weapon into a pond.

Police drained Shadow Lake on the school campus. They searched streams. More than a year later they had a professional diver combing the big, nearby Connecticut River. But without success.

All that ballistics experts ever established from shotgun pellet wadding found outside the window, from the angles and dispersion of the leaden pellets, was that the death weapon was a 20-gauge gun, that a tall person fired it—from a distance of about 20 feet.

Lacking physical clues, police concentrated on motive, and they considered Dr. Speer's liberal Christianity, his de-emphasizing of Bible study, the easing of bans on cardplaying and interschool dancing. They considered how he had allowed seniors to have their way in asking for Socialist Norman Thomas as a commencement speaker. They considered the reluctance of some of those associated with the schools to accept the innovations. Some had been shocked by the changes.

Three theories emerged:

That a brooding, religious fanatic might have been the killer.

That a discharged employe or instructor might have sought vengeance.

That some student, dismissed or asked to leave, had returned—perhaps years later—to "get even."

It was especially difficult to fit the second and third theories in with Dr. Speer's known sympathetic attitude toward his associates and students, or with his impartial sense of justice.

Missions. A sister was a missionary in China. His education included terms at Columbia and the University of Edinburgh.

Police concluded the killer plotted the crime long and thoughtfully, that he fled without confusion, avoiding wrong turns along the twisting, intersecting campus paths.

The belief the killer was an "insider" was substantiated when police learned fuses had disappeared from a lighting circuit controlled from the headmaster's garage, cutting off lights which could have illuminated part of the grounds surrounding the house.

They were interested too in reports some of the school's clocks appeared to have been tampered with—possibly to introduce an element of uncertainty about the time of the crime.

As for religious fanaticism, Dean Thomas E. Elder insisted there were "no possible grounds for the report that religious angles are involved in this case or that Dr. Speer incurred anyone's wrath by his modern methods."

Police interviewed some 500 persons, including the Speers' two servants. School trustees offered a $10,000 reward for apprehension and conviction of the slayer. Clues came from halfway around the world—even from a far-away Englosh missionary.

Former employes and students were checked and eliminated.

At the end of a lengthy secret inquest, with witnesses heard singly and sworn to secrecy, a District Court judge at last reported, nearly four months after the crime, that the headmaster had died at the hands of "a person who is unknown to me."

Investigators have said the hunt for the murderer "never will be closed."

But death has claimed one witness after another who testified at the inquest. And if any of these knew more than he told, the secret went with them to the grave.

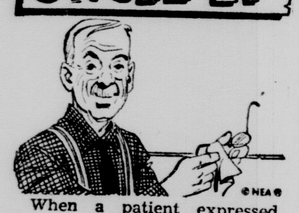
Late last night, a Superior Court jury ordered Biondic hanged for first-degree murder.

Lightning Tolls Bell, Church Burns Down

ATLANTA (AP) — Lightning tolled the bell of historic Bethsaida Baptist Church, set the structure on fire and neighbors who rushed to the scene were unable to save the 93-year-old building.

Violent ringing of the bell summoned the pastor, the Rev. A.O. Williams Jr., who called the suburban College Park Fire Department. Lack of water hampered firemen's efforts. Neighbors saved the pulpit, a piano, church records and some other furniture.

Built of pegged, hand-hewn timbers, the church dated back to 1861 and served as barracks for Sherman's troops during the Civil War.



When a patient expressed disappointment over having to continue putting drops in his eyes and asked if he was going to have to keep it up forever, Doc Smithers answered: "No, I don't think you're going to last that long."

I dreamed I was a social butterfly in maidenform's
new Pre-lude* Strapless bra (with undetectable padding)
Beautiful illusion—your curvaceous new fuller figure in this bare-shouldered bra! The reason—no one but you will know—an undetectable foam rubber lining. Pre-lude's revolutionary contour-band is Maidenform's genius way of curving, separating, lifting you to new heights of loveliness. In flower-fresh white embroidered broadcloth . . .

Says Kremlin Faces Its Greatest Crisis Over Food Shortagse

NEW YORK (AP) — The Free Europe Committee said today that food shortages in Russia and the satellite countries "have brought the Kremlin face to face with the greatest crisis since the conquest of its European empire."

The committee, which describes itself as a privately financed American anti-Communist organization, said that in view of a breakdown in the Soviet agricultural production, "the last thing Moscow wants at the moment is a war which could conceivably bring about the collapse of the entire Soviet structure."

Tots Try to Avoid Nap, Plan Backfires

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Each day John Welch, 3, and his sister Linda, 2, seem to come up with new tries at avoiding their afternoon naps. What they did yesterday worked in reverse.

Mrs. Lois Welch put them to bed, but as soon as she left the room John and Linda were up. Into the bathroom they went and found a bottle of white pills. They tried some and went fast asleep.

Mrs. Welch, looking in on her children, spotted an empty sleeping tablet bottle. After a quick trip to a receiving hospital John and Linda are okay.

Dr. George W. Jackson, state director of institutions, said four more deaths have occurred at Larned State Hospital and three at Osawatomie State Hospital.

Earlier, six deaths were reported at Osawatomie, three at Winfield State Training School and two at Larned.

Treasury Has Bright Tax Outlook

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Treasury stands to gain more additional revenue out of business this fiscal year than it will be losing through the congressional shakeup of the federal tax system.

What business counts as its chief gain in the easing of tax provisions both for corporations and for individuals is incentive — incentive for business to expand and grow, incentive for individuals to invest.

The Treasury will gain moneywise in the months just ahead because the measure now working its way toward the White House puts back, for another year's ride, the old 52 per cent corporate income tax rate which automatically dropped to 47 per cent last April.

As a result, the Treasury will be collecting better than one billion more dollars from business in its current fiscal year than it would under the 47 per cent rate.

That's more than corporations in the coming year will be gaining from the liberalization of rules for figuring depreciation, and losses for tax purposes, and other provisions — although the depreciation liberalization alone will affect some 10 million tax returns.

The Treasury's chief loss of revenue will come from the revision of rules for making out individual tax returns —including the hotly fought-over plans for cutting taxes on income from corporate dividends.

Business, however, has a stake in this and most of the other individual tax changes. It hopes that whatever saving is finally set for dividend income the result will be greater incentive to buy corporate stock. It hopes that savings made on other individual tax provisions will also provide funds to be tapped for investment in business.

The liberalized depreciation regulations, agreed upon both by the Senate and the House, should stimulate outlays of capital, businessmen feel, because the new rules will aid manufacturers, storekeepers, apartment house owners and farmers. The new rules would allow business to write off for tax-figuring purposes two thirds of the cost of plant expansion and modernization in the first half of the useful life of the property — instead of over the entire period as now. The tax-saving incentive of this provision, observers predict, should lead many firms to go ahead now with plans to build or to buy new machinery — plans held up while they waited to see what the provisions of the tax law would be.

Scientists believe that part of the explanation for the twinkling of stars can be found in normal movements of the human eye.

Reeds Return From Trip. Now Complete US Tour

Mr. and Mrs. William Reed, 1317 East Broadway, and A1/c and Mrs. Henry H. Cooper Jr., 712½ South Ohio, have returned from a 5,300-mile trip which touched 14 states including California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

For the Reed family this completed a visitation to each of the 48 states and to Canada and Mexico. The first trip was to Montana to visit Mrs. Reed's uncle, W. M. Scott and family, in 1936, who were visited again this year. Each year various sections of the United States were toured until only four states were left when war restrictions caused a ban on travel. Then, in 1946, Southern California was visited leaving only Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

Some of the points of interest were the Great Salt Lake desert, Lake Tahoe, Shasta Dam near Redding, Crater Lake where the snow was 75 fet deep, Coulee Dam and Yellowstone Park.

A1/c Cooper's father was visited at Twain Harte, Calif. Friends and relatives were visited briefly at Redding, Calif., Salem, Ore., Wilbur Wash., and Missoula, Mont.

Reed is an agent for the Prudential Life Insurance Company and in June completed 25 years of service here in Sedalia.

Thirsty Springfield Looks To New Supply

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 17 (AP) —Thirsty Springfield today started looking toward the proposed Table Rock Dam as a possible water supply for the future.

Army Engineers are preparing to award contracts for a start on the dam about 40 miles south of here.

At the direction of City Manager W. E. Hansen, letters will be sent to all government officials concerning, putting in a bid for drawing up to 19 million gallons daily from the reservoir when it is completed.

Hansen said it will take that much water in addition to present supplies to serve the 150,000 persons who are expected to be living here in 20 to 30 years.

At present about 81,000 persons are on short water rations totaling about 4½ million gallons daily. Without restrictions, the daily use is about 7 million gallons.

Meanwhile, city officials still are looking for an immediate source of more water.

Adenauer Tells France To Hurry on EDC

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today warned France for the second time this month that Europe will not wait much longer for her to ratify the European Defense Community.

In an interview with the Paris newspaper Aurore, the West German leader declared that "time is working for the Soviet Union" and "the delay in decision over EDC is strengthening" the Soviets.

Adenauer in a radio address on July 2 told the French that rejection of the plan to create a six-nation West European army with West Germany taking part would lead to the formation of a German national army.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France has promised to put the EDC up for a vote in the French Parliament during the first two weeks of August provided a satisfactory Indochina settlement can be reached at the Geneva conference.

Moniteau Co. Plans Health Unit Ballot

By Mrs. Thomas W. Miller

TIPTON—At the primary election Tuesday, August 3, voters of Moniteau County will vote on a proposed Health Unit for this county.

The election has been called by the Moniteau County Court which had been petitioned, the petitions having been circulated through the Moniteau County Tuberculosis Association.

If the proposition passes with the required two-thirds majority of those voting, it will mean a registered nurse, a sanitation officer and a clerk for the county.

The tax for the unit would not exceed one mill on the dollar, or 10 cents on the $100 assessed valuation of property.

Members of the campaign committee in Tipton are: Nelson Stonner, Mrs. C. F. Luebbert, Mrs. Tommie Miller, Ira E. Grubb, Joe F. Scott and Alfred W. Lloyd. Mrs. Luebbert and Mrs. Miller being co-chairmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Schwickrath arrived Saturday for a visit here with Mr. Schwickrath's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hecht, and with his brother-in-law W. A. Hecht.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwickrath, who live in Tulsa, Okla., where Mr. Schwickrath is with the mechanical department of the International Harvester Co., spent last week with Mrs. Schwickrath's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Haney, who reside on their farm a mile south of Marshall.

From Tipton they will go to Fayetteville, Ark., for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Terry Stewart, friends, en route to their home in Tulsa.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson and children, Gayle, 12, Roger, 5, and Mark, 2, returned to their home in Kensington, Md., following a week's vacation visit here with Mrs. Peterson's father, C. M. Ferguson, and Mrs. Ferguson.

Mr. Peterson is with the weather bureau in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have had as another house guest, their granddaughter, Susie, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crider, Overland, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Norman returned home Friday from Calico Rock, Ark., where they were called Tuesday when Mrs. Norman's father, James Mayfield, had been struck by a train, dying an hour after the accident.

Mr. Mayfield, 80, was a farmer, his farm lying two miles north of Calico Rock.

Two months ago he suffered a paralytic stroke but had improved and was able to be up and about.

Besides his wife and the daughter, Mrs. Earl Norman, he leaves four other daughters and one son.

Funeral services and burial were held Thursday at Calico Rock.

After a two-week vacation period, the Tipton Manufacturing Co., makers of men's trousers, resumed work Monday.

The superintendent, Harry Kolker, with Mrs. Kalker, spent a part of the time at Excelsior Springs, and a part in Memphis, Tenn., where they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Kolker and daughter, Marsha and Randa.

Mrs. Kolker is spending this week in Tipton with her husband in their apartment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kiesling. The family home of Mr. and Mrs. Kolker is in St. Louis.

S. D. Monks and daughter, Mrs. Mary Elicott, Newton, Kan., left June 27 on an 800-mile trip to Welsh, La., where a barbecue and family reunion was held. Mrs. Monks returned home last Wednesday.

Mrs. Opal Marcum spent the weekend with her son, Doe Marcum, a navy trainee stationed at Great Lakes Navy Base.

Mrs. Reynolds, who has been recuperating from a thyroid operation which she underwent in Macon last December, is feeling much better and plans to remain in her home here.

Mr. Lammers and family accompanied her to Tipton and remained for a week's vacation. Mr. Lammers is sales supervisor with the feed department of General Mills, Inc., and travels through northeast Missouri.

Girl Scout Camp, for Fun and Achievement, Ends With 15 Girls Getting Curved Bars

Wednesday noon ended the three day Girl Scout Camp which included a number of events, the most outstanding being the presentation of the curved bars to 15 girls of Troop No. 30, led by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lambirth.

The curved bar is the highest honor in Girl Scouting and is equal to the eagle rank in Boy Scouting. A girl must be a tenderfoot, second class, first class, and then, after being a first class scout, work a year to receive the award of the curved bar. They must receive four badges and this group of girls picked the field of out-of-doors. There has never before in Sedalia been an entire troop to receive the curved bar.

The impressive ceremony was held Tuesday night around the huge camp fire. The 15 girls formed a circle around the fire with their parents and as each curved bar was presented Mr. Lambirth told of all the fine qualities of the girl, her achievements and the things for which she could be depended upon.

The girls receiving the bar were: Kay Richardson, Shelia Nold, Jane Black, Wanda McCubbin, Donna Anderson, Kay Satterwhite, Sandra Johnson, Mary Keith, Barbara Dougherty, Gayle Williams, Kay Harlan, Barbara Freund, Nan Ferguson, Deanie Perkins and Gwendolyn Moon.

This was also the dedication of the new council ring and the largest crowd of parents and friends attended this program that has ever been to a Girl Scout program.

There were 48 campers with troops 24, 57, 15, 7, 30 and 6 represented. They completely fill the ring and people were standing.

The program opened with Martha Berlin taking the torch and lighted the way and all went down single file to the council ring where the five foot fire was burning.

Mrs. G. G. Hopkins, president of the Girl Scout Council, said she was so happy for the girls because she knew just how thrilled they were to receive the curved bar. Her own daughter, Betty, had received the curved bar and it was a big event in their family, just as big as when her two brothers received their Eagle Scout badges.

Mr. Lambirth also recognized troop leaders, Mrs. Herbert Berlin, Mrs. Paul Weimholt, Mrs. M. J. Robb, Mrs. Harry Lambirth and Mrs. Tom McNally.

After the recognition of the leaders, the song, "Make New Friends But Keep the Old," was sung by the girls who dedicated it to the new campers and each new camper put a stick of wood on the fire.

Each troop put on a stunt after which the other girls were awarded badges:

Martha Berlin for outdoor safety, adventure, magic carpet, world trefoil and My Troop; the following group, Patty Seifner, Gloria Robb, Carolyn Weimholt, Rita Geiser, Shirley Pabst, Marcella Brehl, Micky and Linda Zurowistie, Tony Fowler, Leah Gunn and Catherine Steffens, for magic carpet, world trefoil and My Troop; Judith Gardner, Linda Dickerson and Carolyn Mullberry for troop dramatics, adventure, dabler and out-doors; Emily Smith, and Connie Adams for troop dramatics and outdoor cooking. All of the above were from Troop 57, Mark Twain.

Kathleen Brown, Diana Sklar, Carol Payner, Joan Ritzenthaler and Karen Merry for troop dramatics and outdoor cooking. All are from Troop 15, Horace Mann School.

Wanda Swearngen and Jo Ann Patrick, outdoor cooking, Troop 7, Whittier School.

Cooking over the open fire didn't bother the girls a bit even if heat records were breaking. They cooked in small groups so each could have a part in earning a badge. Three meals a day they cooked over the open fire and you could see them all around, but one of the leaders believes that they might have cooked the meals even without a fire. She was getting ready to hard boil some eggs and put two eggs down on the bricks of the oven. Before she could get things ready to hard boil them her eggs had started to cook and so she had her two soft boiled eggs cooked by the heat of the sun.

The camp started on Sunday night when all gathered around the flag pole and were told what they were going to be doing. Tuesday was chosen as program night and invitations were mailed by the girls to their parents and other relatives. Sunday night they initiated the new council ring.

Monday morning started with flag raising at 7 o'clock as did the next two mornings, with "Reveille." The flag was lowered at sundown by the different units. This was the only time that the girls were all together as a whole, the rest of the time was spent in doing things to earn badges in various fields and develop personality. Those interested in troop camping do it to earn the badges for things they cannot do in the winter.

Monday night many of the mothers and dads thought how awful hot it must be at the camp so most of them had one of two ideas, some of them thought about going to camp and taking cold watermelon and others thought about going out with ice cream, so there was watermelon and ice cream for everybody.

Tuesday night was a night of seriousness and fun. The fun came with the stunts that the girls had planned. Stunts in pantomime included an operation scene in which in shadow they seemed to be performing an operation on a woman with screw drivers, nails fishing nets and other delicate instruments. This was for troop dramatics. A pantomime of a Girl Scout song was for literature and dramatics and a square dance was in music and dramatics.

Troop No. 30 had their parents participating, which was a complete surprise to the parents.

The stunt that topped all the stunts, however, and for which the participants did not receive a Girl Scout badge because they were not Girl Scouts, was the Indian war dance put on by three little boys. The youngsters were brought along by their mothers, who are leaders, for the three days, and heard the girls planning their stunts, so they, also, planned a stunt. They would have an Indian dance around the camp fire.

"I don't want to be an Indian", said four year old Harry Lambirth Jr., "I want to be a cowboy."

"All right", said his granddaddy, Harry Lambirth, "Be a cowboy."

"I don't want to be a cowboy", said little Harry, "I want to beat the drums."

That was all right with grandpa, too. If he wanted to beat the drums instead of being a cowboy he could beat the drums, and so he did along with Bobby Berlin while Johnny Owen did the Indian war dance around the camp fire. The stunt was indeed a surprise to the mothers, and Johnny's mother watched with mingled fear, laughter and astonishment. Johnny had never performed in public before and she could hardly believe he would voluntarily put on a dance, but that was exactly what he was doing. The laughter came from the way the dance was being put on and the fear — well she held her breath for fear he would fall in the camp fire he was dancing around so dizzily.

That wasn't the only thing that boys contributed to at the Girl Scout Camp. Frank and Kenny Berlin helped out, too. They ran the canteen and ran any errands needed.

Indian hostilities which led to Custer's last stand in 1876 resulted in part from Indian movements of whites into the Black Hills in one of the last big gold rushes.

First Paratrooper Receives Ribbon

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The man who made the first test jump in a U. S. Army type parachute in 1917 will receive the commendation ribbon next Thursday in a ceremony at the Grandview Air Force Base.

He is Col. Maurice R. Smith, Kansas City, who will be retiring that day after 36 years of active and reserve military service. Phi Delta Theta Solicits Funds For New House

A financial campaign for $150,000 to construct a new Phi Delta Theta Chapter House at Missouri University is under way this week among Sedalia alumni and friends of Missouri Alpha. The solicitation here will be conducted simultaneously with alumni teams in fourteen other Missouri communities as well as in New York, Chicago and Washington.

Heading the Sedalia phase of the program is John C. McLaughlin.

Gifts of alumni will be made to Fidelity Educational Foundation of Missouri, an alumni organization of Missouri Alpha of Phi Delta Theta authorized to grant scholarships to worthy Missouri students.

The present Chapter House was recently sold to Alpha Gamma Rho, an agricultural fraternity which will take possession next spring.

Growth of the Chapter has demanded that the old house, originally designed to house 28 men, now accommodates as many as 40, with remaining members living in rented quarters elsewhere in Columbia.

Burns Car in Disgust, Then Pays $25 Fine

ANDERSON, S.C. (AP)—It was 103 in the shade here yesterday and James McDowell, 22, was out in the sun half the day trying to fix the carburetor on his 1946 model car.

He couldn't fix it. So he bought a nickel's worth of gasoline, sloshed it over the car and tossed a match onto it. Then he relaxed in a rocker on a nearby porch, remarking "Let 'er burn."

The violation of a city ordinance against starting a fire near a dwelling cost him a $25 fine.

Segregation In Fulton High Will End In Fall

FULTON, July 17 (AP)—The Fulton Board of Education has voted to end racial segregation in the Fulton senior high, school this fall.

B. W. Dunavant, board president said the board's action could mean that approximately 50 Negro boys and girls, who have been attending Lincoln University high in Jefferson City, would enroll at the Fulton high school in September.

However, Dunavant said, all other schools are to be operated the same as last year, with Negro elementary pupils attending the Carvar school as usual.

The board said it recently sent questionnaires to the Negro children who attended Lincoln high last year asking their preference for attending school this fall. Of 42 Negro pupils who replied, the board said 37 favored attending Fulton high.

Mac Asks Contempt Of Congress Citation For Three Witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today asked the Senate to cite Corliss Lamont, wealthy New York City leftist, and two others for contempt of Congress.

He described the cases as testing the right of witnesses to refuse to answer questions in congressional investigations on grounds other than the Fifth Amendment which protects a witness from being forced to give incriminating testimony against himself.

In addition to Lamont, McCarthy asked citations against Albert Shadowitz, a Nutley, N. J., electronics worker, and Abraham Unger, New York City lawyer.

The Government Operations Committee voted May 26 to request the contempt actions, but McCarthy did not file the resolutions until today.
